

TRAGEDY AT GOLDSTREAM

3 Sailors Die in Grinding Crash

Truck Driver Badly Injured

Three Esquimalt sailors were killed instantly and a truck driver seriously injured at Goldstream early today in a violent collision between a small European car and a big trailer truck.

The dead are OS Ronald M. Mills, 20, Edmonton, Alta., OS John W. Dalgity, 21, Appleton, Ont., and George Claude Fraser, 24, Coruna, Ont., all of HMCS Naden. They were all single.

The truck driver is Alfred Reynolds of Richmond, B.C.

'FAIR' CONDITION

His condition at St. Joseph's Hospital is described as "fair."

The accident occurred at 2 a.m., 15 miles from Victoria on the Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream Park.

The 17-ton CPR Island Freight Service truck, loaded with about 17 tons of bottled beer and travelling north to Nanaimo, was in collision with a southbound salmon-colored Volkswagen.

The three sailors in the small car were thrown out. Part of the clothing on two bodies was ripped off by the violence of the impact.

ROLLED OVER

The truck veered after the collision, struck a rocky bluff on the left side of the highway, and rolled over on its side, the cab twisted and torn.

Observers said it was miraculous the driver of the truck was not crushed to death. The roof of his cab and the steering wheel were only inches apart after the crash. He was pinned on the floor of the cab and was released with great difficulty by rescue workers.

The cargo in the trailer shifted as it fell on its side, smashing the roof of the truck open.

The truck driver told police when he first saw the car it was out of control and he veered to avoid a collision. The car was about 100 yards north of the landmark rock pinnacle near the Goldstream Park entrance.

SPUN AROUND

It is believed the car first struck the railing on the side of Goldstream, spun around, its rear striking the trailer-truck.

The engine of the car, situated in the rear, was ripped off and was found 50 feet from the scene of the accident.

There were no eyewitnesses, but when Wayne Antrobus, 2680 Sooke Road, first arrived on the scene, he found the bodies scattered over the highway.

"I first thought sacks were on the road, but when I found out what they really were, it nearly scared me to death," he said.

CALL FOR HELP

He heard the voice of the driver in the cab calling for help.

A Langford volunteer ambulance crew was called to the scene and released the truck driver. He was pinned down by debris and at first rescue workers thought they would have to use a torch to cut the cab open.

The road was wet at the time of the accident. It was raining and visibility was not good.

The three victims were from the RCN training establishment in Halifax and had come to Esquimalt for a course. They apparently were returning to barracks from up-Island.

The bodies were taken to Sands funeral parlor at Colwood. No date has been set for an inquest.

City Sailor Murdered In 'Frisco

A Victoria naval rating was murdered in San Francisco sometime overnight, while his ship was visiting the California port.

He was identified as Leading Seaman Daniel J. Shaughnessy, 26, 40 Lurline Ave. Reports said he had been shot in chest and leg and struck on the head.

His ship, the destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree, docked at San Francisco Thursday with two other Esquimalt-based destroyers, Assiniboine and Skeena. They had been exercising with units of the U.S. fleet.

Presumably Shaughnessy went ashore on leave Thursday afternoon.

MOVEMENTS UNKNOWN

Nothing as yet is known of his movements from then until his body was found.

His body was found at Land's End, the San Francisco point overlooking the Golden Gate.

MONEY IN POCKET

They could establish no motive. Shaughnessy did not appear to have been robbed—there were $14 U.S. dollars and two Canadian dollars in his wallet.

The three destroyers are scheduled to leave San Francisco Monday, returning to Esquimalt at 11 a.m. Friday. Shaughnessy, formerly of Edmonton, is survived by the widow here.

WIRE BRIEFS

Rail Talks Continue

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's two major railroads and representatives of their non-operating workers continue talks today to see if a nationwide strike can be avoided.

Strike Goes On

TORONTO (CP)—Strike settlement appeared remote today as placard-carrying pickets plodded before the Royal York Hotel and guests continued toting their own drinks. The strike seemed to be turning into a legal wrangle.

30-Hr. Week Beaten

DETROIT (UPI)—United auto workers president Walter P. Reuther today defeated an attempt by a dissident faction to have the union press for a flat 30-hour work week at this summer's negotiations.

Pessimism 'Unfounded'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Trade Minister George Hees said today Canada has no need to be pessimistic about trading prospects with the Common Market and Outer Seven groups in Europe.

PM TO QUASH BASTEDO ON SASK. LEGISLATION

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today that the federal government will over-ride Saskatchewan Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo's action in reserving provincial mining legislation.

Diefenbaker told the Commons he would announce the cabinet's decision on Bastedo's reservation Monday.

"I would point out, however, that reservation of legislation by a lieutenant-governor has generally been dependent on direction from the federal government," he said. "There was neither direction nor consultation in this case."

'Cease-Fire' Passes Reds Open Barrage

VIENTIANE (AP)—The Western-backed Laotian government's noon target hour for a cease-fire in the civil war passed today with no response from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

Proclaiming "we are the victors," rebel broadcasts were still demanding Thursday that the Vientiane government send a delegation to their headquarters at Xieng Khouang, in eastern Laos, "to negotiate and discuss the cease-fire and armistice question."

The Vientiane government showed no disposition to bow to the rebel demand and instead hoped that negotiations would get under way this weekend in Luang Prabang, the royal capital 150 miles north of Vientiane, at the ceremonial cremation of the late king Sisavong Vong.

Later reports said the Reds were pressing offensives on several fronts and had opened up an artillery barrage.

Dief, Nehru: 'Peace Urgent'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Laotian truce supervisory commission meeting today reached "full agreement" on the contents of a report to be sent to Britain and the Soviet Union, an official communiqué said.

The communiqué, issued after the opening session of the three-power commission, did not disclose the contents of the report. But it said the commission will discuss the draft of it Saturday.

Earlier, Indian Prime Minister Nehru told the delegates—from Canada, Poland and India—that it was of "the greatest importance" to secure a cease-fire in the strife-torn Indo-Chinese kingdom "as early as possible."

He told the delegates that "the sooner you go to Laos, the better it will be."

Western agreement with the urgency of Nehru's statements was reflected in a message from Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker, read at the opening session.

Diefenbaker voiced concern over the prospects of an early cease-fire and over "the condition which will then obtain."

U.S. Patience Near End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported near the end of its patience today with what officials privately call Communist stalling.

President Kennedy has inflamed consultations with allied governments and with congressional leaders on what steps may be taken next to prevent more of Laos from falling to Soviet-backed rebel forces.

New action could include

Britain Calls for Meeting

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today called for a meeting between the Laotian government and pro-Communist guerrillas on neutral ground in Laos under a "flag of truce" to establish a cease-fire in the Indo-Chinese kingdom.

A foreign office spokesman announced the proposal amid reports of "crisis planning" among Western diplomats over the delay in ending the fighting in Laos. Diplomatic quarters here were freely discussing the possibility of intervention by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

The spokesman declined to say whether this proposal has been formally presented by Britain either to Russia or the right-wing Laotian government.

'Very Grave Consequences'

OTTAWA (CP)—"Very grave consequences" could result if a cease-fire is not quickly arranged, External Affairs Minister Green said today in the Commons.

He said the whole point in the current Laos situation is "whether or not there will be a cease-fire." Everybody was saying they would like a cease-fire but nothing had yet been done.

When there was a cease-fire, the international truce supervisory commission—Canada, India and Poland are the members—would begin immediately its job of verifying it.

The Canadian members of the commission had instructions to work closely with India and Poland.

'NO PARKING' CHARGE WON 'Y COLLEGIAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A University of Western Ontario student successfully challenged in court Thursday the validity of curbside signs erected to enforce rush-hour parking bans.

Douglas Ort, 20-year-old geology student from Niagara Falls, Ont., was charged with parking in a prohibited zone between 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

He argued that the signs merely banned stopping during this period. He said he stopped his car to park it before 4:30 p.m. and therefore, had not broken the regulation.

Magistrate Donald B. Menzies said the bylaw under which the parking bans were introduced calls for properly worded signs. The sign was not sufficient to follow the wording of the bylaw, he ruled.

The charge was dismissed.

Congb Peace Parley Set To Resume

COQUILHATVILLE. The Congo (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe ended a 30-hour "sitdown strike" at the airport here today.

He agreed to talk with other Congo leaders about the possibilities of his returning to The Congo Confederation conference from which he walked out to start his sitdown. He had demanded permission to fly back to his Elisabethville capital.

The defiant Tshombe also was on a hunger strike during his long airport "strike." He looked tired and haggard when he left the airport lounge, littered with his baggage.

The Katanga president reached his decision after talking at the airport with Congolese commander-in-chief Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu who had landed here a short time earlier behind 60 of his troops, brought in as reinforcements to those already in Coquilhatville.

U.S. Spurns Cuban Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, spurning a suggestion from the Castro regime for U.S.-Cuban negotiations, declared today that "communism, in this hemisphere is not negotiable."

A state department spokesman pointedly reminded reporters that President Kennedy had said the American people "are not complacent about Iron Curtain tanks and planes less than 90 miles from our shores."

Force of impact reduced sailors' car to scrap metal.

Space Shot Successful Man Up Next Week?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Mercury space craft passed its final test today, clearing the way for an astronaut to ride an identical capsule on a sub-orbital flight next week.

He agreed to talk with other Congo leaders about the possibilities of his returning to The Congo Confederation conference from which he walked out to start his sitdown. He had demanded permission to fly back to his Elisabethville capital.

The test was one of the most rugged the capsule could be subjected to and the last in a series before manned flight. It was conducted at the Federal Space Agency's experimental station at Wallops Island, Va.

The space administration reported that the rocket reached only 14,000 feet, instead of 40,000 as planned. But a spokesman said the escape system designed to enable an astronaut to escape from a rocket failure appeared to have worked well.

"The escape was triggered under much more severe conditions than will occur during either the manned Mercury-Redstone (suborbital) or Atlas-boosted (orbital) flights," the space agency said.

"The capsule (fired at 9:04) was recovered at 9:14 a.m. EST and was returned to Wallops station at 9:30 a.m. EST by helicopter. The capsule appears to be in good condition."

In explanation of the low altitude, scientists at the scene said "one of the launching rockets was a little slow in firing."

The "Little Joe" launcher used in the experiment was made up of six solid-fuel rockets bound together in one rocket frame.

After examining the capsule, the scientists said it could be used again in tests or space flights. The same capsule was slightly damaged in the March test, but was fully repaired.

Electronic data showed that the rocket reached a maximum speed of 1,100 miles an hour.

Results of today's test determined whether a U.S. astronaut will be carried up in a similar capsule next week on a 115-mile downrange rocket ride from Cape Canaveral.

In a test March 18, the escape rocket fired too soon and the capsule was slightly damaged. But the scientists said that an astronaut would have survived either the flight today or the one March 18.

Israel Downs Egyptian Jet

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Israeli jet planes today shot down a Soviet-made Egyptian jet fighter in the northwestern Negev, an Israeli Army spokesman announced here.

The spokesman said the aerial engagement followed the violation of Israeli airspace by two jet fighter planes of the MIG-17 type.

Israeli Super Mystere French built jet fighters intercepted the invaders and engaged them, he said.

"One of the Egyptian planes was shot down and its pilot was seen bailing out," the spokesman added.

Whites Expelled

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—The British leader of some 30 whites captured fighting with the army of break-away Katanga province was expelled from the Congo today along with two other Britons, a United Nations spokesman announced. The leader was Capt. W. R. Browne, brother of a British Conservative party legislator.

Long's they kin keep the civc centre from b'comin' dead centre.

It'd be a nice twist t' git th' Congolese t' settle th' Algerian problem, th' Algerians t' settle th' Laotian problem, an' th' Laotians t' settle th' Congo.

De Gaulle's Purge Hauls in 3,000

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's purge, of disloyal elements in France and Algeria assumed massive proportions tonight. The number of civilians and military personnel arrested approached 3,000.

As government police swept through Metropolitan France and Algeria making more arrests, it was announced De Gaulle would address the nation May 8 to tell of the crushing of the four-day Algerian revolt and its drastic aftermath.

Before the mutiny of the Algiers generals that started last Saturday had collapsed 96 hours later, De Gaulle assumed

Radio Engineers Form Branch Of Institute

A Victoria section of the Institute of Radio Engineers was inaugurated at a meeting in the B.C. Electric Building recently.

C. L. Madill was elected chairman, with D. J. Chorlton vice-chairman and Lieut. A. M. Baxter secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Baxter said the organization comprises a cross-section of electronic engineering from the fields of military electronics, television transmission and reception, broadcasting, communications and industrial electronics in both government and industry.

"The organization affords for the first time an opportunity for personnel employed by various facilities to meet one another to discuss their mutual problems."

full dictatorial powers and said he would use them ruthlessly, without "pity or mercy," to bring the insurrectionists to justice and rid both Algeria and France of traitors or potential traitors.

CONTINUING DRIVE

De Gaulle is making good this promise.

More than 2,000 had been arrested in France and more than 600 in Algeria, and the roundup continued.

How long the purge was likely to go on was not known but in setting May 8—VE day—for his nationwide radio and television report to the people, de Gaulle obviously was giving himself time to do a thorough house-cleaning job.

He is expected to announce in the speech fundamental changes in the political, social and economic life of the country. He also is expected to give an account of the purge operations undertaken with his absolute powers to consolidate the future authority of the state.

TO RETAIN POWERS

Reliable sources predicted de Gaulle would announce that he was retaining his dictatorial powers—some predicted for months—to make sure he had cleaned out every vestige of potential disloyalty.

The number of men who will stand trial is as yet unknown. Five more generals from Algeria, five colonels and a navy officer were on their way to join Gen. Maurice Challe in the Sante criminals' prison in Paris tonight.

The five did not include any of the three top generals, who with Gen. Maurice Challe, led the mutiny. Challe is being held in prison here awaiting trial on charges that could result in his execution.

The arrested generals included infantry Gen. Andre Petit; Gen. Gouraud, former commander in Constantine; Air Force Gen. Bigot, former commander of the Fifth Air Region; Air Force Gen. Mentre, former commander of the Sahara inter-forces; and Gendarme Gen. Tridon.

PM NOT SURE ON COLUMBIA PACT STUDIES

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker remained non-committal today when asked whether the Columbia River treaty will be sent to a Commons committee for study. Opposition leader Pearson asked whether the treaty—already ratified by the United States, but not by Canada—will be studied by the Commons external affairs committee.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that will be "determined in the light of circumstances as they develop" and would depend on whether the committee itself wants to study the treaty.

FOUND DEAD

With her head resting in a bathroom sink filled with water, Pamela Garraway, 34, wife of TV star, Dave Garraway, was found dead today in their New York apartment. Mrs. Garraway's body was found by her daughter, Parris, 17. Garraway, 48, was away on vacation.

The Western German government this year will pay pensions to 1,400,000 disabled war veterans and 1,100,000 widows of war veterans.

U.S. AID OFFER 'INOPPORTUNE'

PARIS (UPI) — The newspaper Le Monde said Thursday "American agents" apparently "more or less encouraged" Gen. Maurice Challe, alleged leader of the abortive four-day insurrection in Algeria.

Le Monde also said that while President John F. Kennedy "obviously" had nothing to do with the uprising, his offer of aid to Gen. Charles de Gaulle at the time was "inopportune."

230,000 Indians by 1971

WALPOLE ISLAND, Ont. (CP) — Citizenship Minister Fairclough said Thursday night Canada's Indian population will increase from 185,000 to 230,000 within the next 10 years. She told a Wallaceburg Rotary Club dinner meeting at this Lake St. Clair reservation that by 1971 the Indian population will be greater than when Jacques Cartier first stepped ashore at Gaspe in 1535. It was about 200,000 at that time.

IN PARLIAMENT

Plea to Question Coyne On Bank Report Rejected

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Fleming said in the Commons Thursday there would be no advantage to Parliament or the public in having the Bank of Canada annual report and Governor James Coyne appear before a House of Commons committee.

Mr. Coyne was a witness before the Senate manpower committee Wednesday, and Paul Martin (L.-Essex East) said he and his report should be submitted to the Commons committee.

In reply to another question, Prime Minister Diefenbaker told Opposition Leader Pearson it would be improper for him to comment on Mr. Coyne's remarks.

A rule of the House prevents discussion of a committee's work until it has presented its report.

Defence Production Minister O'Hurley declined comment on a report that Canadair Limited, Montreal, might obtain a contract to produce the American Lockheed Starfighter for the United States mutual aid program in exchange for Canadian acquisition of an American interceptor for the RCAF. He was replying to Lionel Chevrier (L.-Montreal Laurier), who referred to a Canadian Press report that Lockheed has made a proposal to the government and that it was discussed by Canadian and American officials in Washington.

Trade Minister Hees said he is certain that census commissioners will take the question of unemployed workers "very much into consideration" in naming census canvassers.

Repeating to J. R. Garland (L.-Nipissing), Mr. Hees said the employment of the canvassers was left in the hands of the commissioners but he is sure they will take into account how anxious the government is to find jobs for the unemployed.

Voting Indian Fears Identity Loss

A Saskatchewan Indian chief said he fears Canadian Indians will lose their identity by having the right to vote.

Chief John Gambler of the Muscowpetung reservation in south-central Saskatchewan told the joint committee on Indian affairs he was not opposed to non-treaty Indians being granted the right to vote. However, the vote should not be given to treaty Indians because such a step is in conflict with treaties under which the Canadian government agreed to care for the Indian people.

Granting the treaty Indian the right to vote was equivalent to throwing the question of Indian advancement, betterment, welfare and integration into the political arena.

'NOT READY'

Treaty Indians at present are not ready to accept the franchise and "assimilate into the Canadian way of life."

Fisheries Minister Maclean said the government has no plans at present to introduce a federal fish products marketing act at this session.

He said in a reply to Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) that such action, however, is under study.

Canada will be represented on two committees of the new Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development

JFK Makes Headway In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is starting to make inroads into the big pile of bills President Kennedy wants enacted.

The House approved and sent to the White House Wednesday Kennedy's controversial $304 million program for reviving economically depressed communities. The vote was 223 to 193.

By choice vote it also completed congressional action on legislation granting the president authority to sell abroad for foreign currencies and an additional $2 billion worth of government-held farm surpluses.

This boosted to nine the number of major pieces of Kennedy requested legislation which Congress approved.

Fire Photo Appears In Court

An outsize photograph of a fire at Coal Harbor, Vancouver, was hung on a blackboard in B.C. Appeal Court here Thursday when two shipyard firms battled through their counsel over responsibility for the fire, which occurred on May 30, 1957.

A. C. Benson Shipyard Ltd. of Coal Harbor, appealed against a lower court judgment that its employees were responsible for a fire which caused serious damage to a tug the Black Raven, owned by Andys Bay Industries Ltd. Mr. Justice T. W. Brown in Supreme Court awarded $11,873 against Benson's for damage to the Black Raven, which was undergoing repairs in Benson's yard at the time.

Counsel for Benson's claim that Mr. Justice Brown erred in finding that the fire "started and spread" due to the negligence of Benson's employees. They maintain there was no direct evidence concerning the cause of the fire, and said Mr. Justice Brown had given "undue weight to the opinion evidence of witnesses."

The hearing continued today.

Youth Fined $20 For Fight With High School Foe

High school rivalry was blamed in Saanich police court Thursday for a fist fight on a service station lot that led to a charge of causing a disturbance.

Eugene Fagan, 18, of 659 West Burnside, pleaded guilty to fighting in a public place and was fined $20 by Magistrate William Ostler who chided the boy for getting a serious conviction over such a trivial matter.

Fagan said the fight with a 17-year-old (who was charged in juvenile court), developed after some taunting. The other youth attends a "rival" school.

The Big Guns

THE DIFENBAKER GOVERNMENT's estimate of the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election is clearly revealed by its decision to send no less than seven cabinet ministers into this campaign. No higher tribute could be paid to the electoral strength of Mr. David Gross, the Liberal candidate. In its obvious alarm, the government is unlimbering its big guns against him.

The prime minister's chief lieutenants should be welcomed in this area. The voters will be eager to hear what they have to say about the state of the nation and the government's plans to revive its flagging economy.

By coming here in such numbers they have confirmed the true issue of the by-election. It is simply whether the people of Esquimalt-Saanich wish to endorse or disapprove the record of the government. There is no other issue of importance as the government itself shows by fighting the by-election as a major test of its strength.

This may not suit the local Conservatives who have tried to avoid national affairs, almost to keep the government out of the contest and to concentrate their campaign on local affairs, interesting in themselves but relatively unimportant.

The question in this by-election is not some parking lot as originally proposed by Mayor Scourrah, and now advocated by Mr. Chatterton. It is not a new airport, desirable as that may be, for surely the government does not intend to make this project dependent on the goodwill of the voters as a kind of electoral bribe, or threat. The question is not the personality of this or that candidate. Nor is Mr. Chatterton fighting for the reeveship of Saanich, as one might suppose from his campaign so far.

The issue is the government's record for which Mr. Chatterton has made himself fully responsible as the government's candidate and accredited representative. He asks the people to endorse that record, to accept the government's policies and maintain them. If this is what the people want they should certainly vote for Mr. Chatterton and thus endorse the government.

If they are dissatisfied with the government they can vote for only one practical alternative, the Liberal candidate. For the Liberal party alone can possibly form another national government, the CCF and Social Credit being no more than splinters in national politics.

According to the Gallup Poll, as supported by various local elections, the Liberal party is today the strongest party in Canada, with a considerably larger support than the government enjoys.

To be sure, a Liberal victory in Esquimalt-Saanich will not change the government since it can remain in office, if it wishes, until 1963. But a stronger opposition against the huge Conservative majority in Parliament, a rebuke from the local voters, would teach the government a needed lesson and help to improve its administration.

With 202 members behind it in the House of Commons, the government does not require, for legislative purposes, another back-bencher from Esquimalt-Saanich. It wants a favorable vote, however, to save its falling prestige and to impress the nation. And by its massive ministerial march on the local constituency it not only demonstrates its fear of the Liberal candidate but agrees with him that its own record and policies are the issue to be settled on May 29.

Limitations of the Bomb

RECENT TOP-LEVEL STATEMENTS in Britain and the United States suggest that a new approach to the principle of the nuclear deterrent is under way. As President Kennedy says, the deterrent should "do what we wish, neither more nor less," and Prime Minister Macmillan puts it: "The first essential is that the deterrent should deter."

American nuclear policy has passed through three stages—changing with changing conditions which made the original premises obsolete.

In the first phase, when the United States was the sole possessor of the Bomb, the country offered to renounce ownership and use if the rest of the world would guarantee a dependable international inspection system. This in effect meant, at least for Russia, a choice between full-scale inspection and an attempt to work out for itself the secrets of nuclear explosion.

Moscow chose the second alternative. Even Britain, although an ally of the United States, was forced to produce its own bomb, and France eventually followed suit.

In other words, as Joseph Harsch points out in the Christian Science Monitor, American policy had the reverse effect of that intended. Instead of one nuclear-armed country, there were now four.

The second stage occurred when the United States had a large stockpile of nuclear arms but other nations had few. It was at this point that Mr. Dulles' policy of massive retaliation was announced—aggression would be met by an overpowering weight of nuclear weapons. The intent was to discourage the crossing of borders by Communist force.

But here again the deterrent was effective only temporarily. Communism channeled its border-crossing influence into forms against which the nuclear weapon could not be used. The success of this system has been demonstrated in many parts of the world in the ensuing years. The deterrent had ceased to deter, except in the event of full scale nuclear assault.

Phase three finds the limitations of the deterrent being recognized. The nuclear warhead can still probably deter an attack by nuclear weapons—the principle of the "scorpions in a bottle" still holds. But the possible spread of nuclear armaments to numerous countries able to afford them is not halted, and non-nuclear war is not prevented.

Halting the spread of nuclear arms throughout the world can only be achieved through negotiation and agreement—particularly with Russia and Red China. Guarantee of frontiers against infiltration and brush-fire wars is beyond the capability of the Bomb.

This threat can be met only by conventional arms, and it is to this form of defence that Mr. Kennedy is now giving renewed attention.

Such recognition of the Bomb's limitations, as well as of its potentialities, is a step in the direction of world security; the thumb is a little farther back from the button that could end it all.

Fish and Power on the Snake

WHILE BRITISH COLUMBIA focuses its hydro interest on the Columbia, Pacific Northwest States, also vitally concerned with the international river, are sparing thought for the controversial development of the Snake.

Here the problem is one familiar to people of this province. Two sites are under consideration. One, the Nez Perce, is meeting sharp opposition from Northwest fisheries interests.

Of significance to British Columbia is the length of time being allowed scientists to find a solution. The United States Secretary for the Interior has called for a four-year embargo on hydro construction on the Middle Snake. By that time, it is suggested, an answer should be found to ensure passage of fish up the stream and down again.

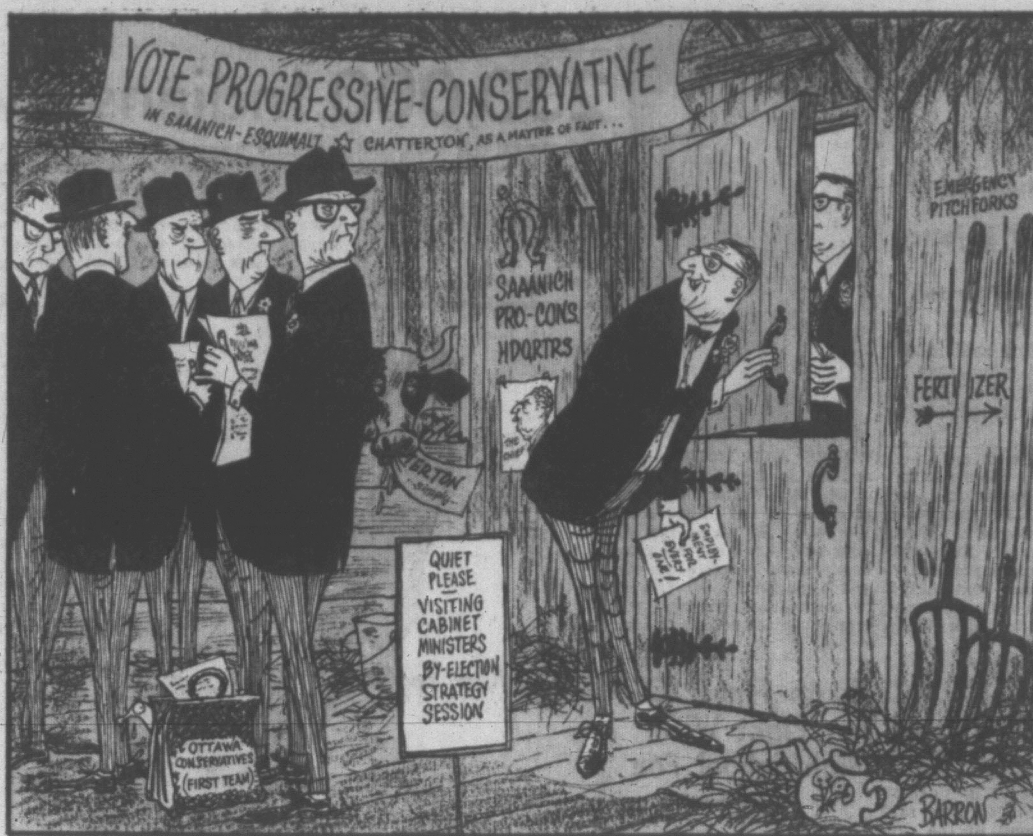

The United States Army Engineers, reporting on the situation, say in part: "The problem of passing migratory fish at high dams, in the opinion of authoritative sources, cannot be resolved in less than eight or 10 years, and because of the unique fisheries problem presented, they state that at least 15 or 20 years might be necessary" at Nez Perce.

Local conditions no doubt influence the time considered necessary to provide adequate fish passage. Four years seems too little.

The point will not be lost on British Columbians who have fish-power problems—and who have been assured by the premier that no fish rivers will be disturbed until other hydro streams have been fully developed, or until the fish-power issue has been resolved.

At all events, the controversy on the Snake lends weight to the belief that there is not now any early prospect of a solution.

By golly, it's Chatterton, himself... thinks he'd like to get in on our campaign... Whattaya say?

NO SAFETY IN NUMBERS

Accidents, and People, Will Happen

By B. A. TOBIN

EXPERTS tell us frequently that the worst place for accidents to people is the home. It's the worst place for people, too. Show me a home, and I'll show you people—particularly in the last few years when TV has been filling living rooms at night with sleeping audiences. It is natural enough that accidents to people should happen largely where people are to be found. Almost every home has people in it, and everybody knows that people are not safe to have around.

For every roller skate left on a basement stairway, for every bottle of carbolic left in the kiddies' toy box, for every box of matches left sitting on a hotplate, there is, probably, a human being who has left them there.

What have people got against homes? Why do they subject homes to such hazards? Is it the gambling instinct that leads a person to stuff oily rags into a box beside a hot stovepipe? Is it the happy-go-lucky, madcap mentality of the true adventurer that prompts a person to keep rusty razor blades in a box of pencils, or bare wiring on the electric heater in the bathroom?

Man, as an individual, leaves cigarettes burning near his open gas tank, or cut glass vases standing too near the edge of the table. As a race, he goes even farther. He leaves political situations burning near inflammable human tinder, and whole nations poised on various brinks of disaster.

He is continually creating vacuums and then wondering why they are immediately filled with a bang. Take The Congo, for instance. How could any human being with a working brain have expected anything but tragedy to have resulted from the sudden withdrawal of all governmental and administrative aid, leaving hardly two persons in millions who were capable of running the country?

That was an obvious case of leaving an empty kettle over a hot flame, or leaving an open can of lye in the playpen. How can one big country suddenly start to infiltrate another little one, knowing that the second country is the particular interest of a third large nation? That is exactly like leaving the gas oven turned on without a flame while you go to town, or sticking wet fingers into a lamp socket: everything is set for a big boom.

People shouldn't be allowed loose in the world. They aren't safe. And they shouldn't be allowed to associate with human beings, either. They're too dangerous.

FROM LONDON

Parliament Takes a Look at Mr. Lloyd's Budget

UNDOUBTEDLY many of the supporters of the cuts in Britain's surtax do genuinely believe that relatively high marginal rates of tax were discouraging people from working for promotion and were causing too much effort to go into thinking up ways of tax avoidance.

Perhaps, indeed, some people will work a little harder now—but no one believes that this change is going to make the British businessman start work at 8.30 in the morning like his German counterpart. Nor are many people likely to give up tax dodges, once they have learned how to work them.

Indeed, there is the real enough possibility that the tax cuts will make some people work less hard; to get a post tax income of £6,500, it was formerly necessary to earn £20,000 and now it will only be necessary to earn about £11,000.

The really successful man can now do about half as much work and still be as well off as before.

This uncertainty whether the tax changes will have any significant effect on the dynamism of the British economy reflects the limitations of the new Toryism. The great and glaring omission in the budget lies in its failure to encourage economic growth or to do anything to strengthen the chronically weak balance of payments situation.

Positive Contributions

Its positive contributions—beyond the switch in the tax burden away from the better off—were limited to measures designed to improve the stability of the economy, but having no effect on its rate of growth.

The Tory position is understandable in a party which does not welcome the prospect of the rapid social change which is likely to accompany very rapid economic growth; it is to be content with an average rate of growth similar to that which has been achieved over the last decade but to try to iron out more of the fluctuations in economic activity, so that each year sees a modest rise in output and the standard of living instead of an alternation of short booms followed by near stagnation.

For a long time the Conservatives followed the mysticism of the City and tried to control these economic fluctuations by means of monetary policy.

First, reliance was placed on changes in interest rates, but these proved too slow and uncertain in operation. Then the switch in emphasis was towards using consumer credit (hire purchase) controls but their impact was on such a narrow sector of the economy they caused more disturbance to individual trades than they did good to the general economy.

Consequently the government has been forced back into the Keynesian policy of relying on changes in taxation and government spending in order to control the level of demand. The great snag in the past in this use of budgetary policy has been that it has only been possible to make tax changes in the middle of the financial year if a really critical situation had developed. Yet the real need is for the chancellor to be able to make small changes at short notice.

If he cannot do that, there is no hope at all of stopping substantial year-by-year fluctuations in the economic position; if the chancellor has to wait many months before making adjustments, the danger is that he will over-correct when the time comes.

His problem in a country with annual tax changes, is that of a motorist trying to drive along a straight line who is only allowed to touch the steering wheel, either at infrequent regular intervals, or when the car is on the point of running into the ditch.

Close Control

Now, at long last, the chancellor is proposing to keep his hands on the budgetary steering wheel all the time. It is intended that he will be able to change all the major excise duties (including purchase taxes, tobacco and wine duties, and petrol taxes) up or down by a maximum of 10 per cent across the board.

In this way, he will be free to increase or decrease taxation by £200 million a year—and to do so at very short notice. This proposal has been accepted with remarkable equanimity.

The other proposal for additional tax flexibility has been less well received—and largely because it has obviously not been fully thought out by the Treasury. It is that the chancellor will have the power to impose a payroll tax of up to four shillings a week on the employer for each workman employed.

Expensive Labor

One of its results is to make labor more expensive when unemployment is very low and labor is very scarce, and so to encourage employers to use labor economically. A second idea goes beyond this; it is that a permanent payroll tax will encourage business to make more use of labor-saving methods of production.

The Labor Opposition's reaction to this has been one of somewhat bewildered criticism. "Trade unionists find it difficult to understand why the Tories have suddenly decided that high labor costs are a good thing when the unions have been told in the past that it was unpatriotic and foolish to increase industry's labor costs by demanding higher wages."

If wage increases lead to cost increases and so to inflation, why is a payroll tax not equally harmful?

There is, of course, a difference, in that increased wages are generally spent while an increased payroll tax is prob-

WASHINGTON:

U.S. Wants 6 to Join 7

By MAX FREEDMAN

MR. DILLON, the secretary of the treasury, has outlined the latest thinking of the Kennedy administration on the problem of the two rival economic groups in Europe. He told a press conference that on the short run there is bound to be some greater difficulty for the trade of the United States as Europe succeeds in forming a larger economic unit. But he thought that if the United States could obtain "a relatively complete merger" between the common market and the outer seven, "with political values in it" that this "would be a very useful thing, and we think we can deal with that body in a way so that discrimination against the United States would be kept to a minimum."

He added that the "type of thing" to which the United States had always been opposed, with steady emphasis, was an agreement between the six and the seven "where they gave each other special considerations, special tariff arrangements, and they made no political arrangement with each other, still stayed separate, still were in effect contending with each other, and all that happened was discrimination against the United States. If we do get a political juncture of these two groups which strengthens the west, strengthens the whole of Europe, in this contest that we are facing in the world today, then we think that possibly we can pay some price, but I don't think that price will be too large because the amount of discrimination that we would already have from the six and from the seven would probably not be measurably increased by the juncture of the two groups."

Mr. Dillon recalled that the six countries that belong to the common-market had always intended to form more than a tariff agreement. They had agreed to have free movement of labor. They had agreed to harmonize their tax structures to some extent. They had agreed to the creation of a European assembly with political powers.

He explained that the Kennedy administration had no present intention of asking the outer seven to join the common market by signing the Rome treaty but "I think that for the best kind of solution it would be helpful for those of the seven—who can do it to join with the six in something that was as close to the Rome treaty as they can accept."

"Now we realize that there are some members of the seven that do not feel they could do this because of their special neutral position, and if something like this did evolve, something would have to be done to recognize that problem. But that is not impossible. It has already been done by the seven for Finland. It is a similar thing."

Mr. Dillon said that instead of concentrating on the question of immediate discrimination, it would be wiser to think of the rapid economic growth of Europe as its economic unity grew larger. As Europe's prosperity increased it would take more imports from the United States and Canada.

MARKED for READING

THE WHOLE BOOK
The most vivid educational experiences of my life sprang from a friendship with an eccentric old lady who lived in the same road. This old lady loved books with a consuming love. She loved every sentence, every word, every comma and every full stop: she loved the pages and the stitches that held them together. She loved the feel of the book and the smell of it—indeed before she gave me a book she would dust it on her apron and then put it reverently to her nostrils, as if she was sniffing incense. She stirred up my enthusiasm for books in a way that some of the most famous professors in the land never equalled.

Two-Way Stretch in Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The makers of "Playtex, the Living Bra," put on a demonstration here that left me with mixed emotions — one part amazement and two parts disappointment.

The two parts represent my reaction when I discovered that the demonstration was not up-lifting in the way that one might expect from the Playtex people.

The other part came when I learned that they have taken the know-how gained from the manufacture of foundation garments and applied it to the creation of coveralls for astronauts.

In other words, to cease being coy about it, this was a demonstration of a new space suit that the International Latex Corp. has developed for the air force.

It had nothing to do with the four-way stretch and other streamlining equipment with which the company caters to the sags and bulges of American womanhood.

According to spokesmen for the firm, the space suit is the most advanced stratosphere costume yet designed in this country and may be more stylish than anything the Russians have conceived.

One big advantage is the ease with which it can be put on and taken off. An astronaut can wiggle into the suit in about the time it takes for an overcautious lady to sheath herself in a Playtex girdle.

(This is just an estimate, of course. I have never actually clocked either operation.)

Another feature of the space suit is its mobility. It permits the spaceman to move around with as much freedom as... well, I won't use that comparison again.

Up to now, most space suits have been custom tailored to fit a specific astronaut. The Playtex people claim their creation will make it possible to transfer space suits to the ready-to-wear department.

They figure that 90 per cent of our future astronauts can be outfitted from a basic stock of just four sizes. The other 10 per cent presumably will have to go to the alteration department.

The suit, which has three sets of zippers, is supposed to adapt a space traveller for all conditions up to and including a landing on the moon.

It would appear, then, that America has the lead in space haberdashery. Now all we have to do is build some rockets to match.

INDUSTRY ON MOVE

By CLARE McDERMOTT

Nanking Has New Look

Clare McDermott, Edmonton-born newspaper man who now is Reuters correspondent in Peking, recently completed a 3,500-mile tour of eastern and southeastern China. In this story he reports on developments in the former political capital of Nanking.

NANKING (Reuters)—Nanking, where politics has taken precedence over commerce for most of China's history, has taken great strides toward industrialization since the Communists moved the national capital from here to Peking in 1949.

Foreign travellers are told by local officials in many Chinese cities: "This has changed from a consumer region in the past to a centre of production today."

Bustling City

Western observers who knew Nanking in pre-Communist days and have visited here recently believe the claim probably is more justified of this city than of many others.

Nanking, with a strategic position in China's transport network, today boasts iron and steel mills, big chemical and fertilizer plants, truck manufacture and cotton textile, silk, radio, electronic and other industries.

As do many other large cities in China today, it has the busy air of a building site as new roads are built, older ones widened, and new blocks of apartments and factories go up in the suburbs.

Communist press reports say the amount of housing available here has increased three-fold since 1949, both in the city centre and in the industrial suburbs.

Experimental TV

Officials add that schools and colleges have increased greatly, from five institutes of higher education in 1949 to 20 such schools, with 30,000 students at present. The old Nanking University, housed in grey stone buildings in the heart of the city, now has 6,000 students.

The city also has its own television station, although it is still experimental and transmits programs for the public only on weekends.

Although still far behind some other cities, Nanking is growing in importance as a textile centre. A big new cotton textile mill is still under construction south of the city, while an older plant along the Yangtze has been enlarged. Silk-weaving mills have been established to make use of the raw silk from the surrounding provinces.

In the eastern suburbs there is a factory manufacturing movie equipment. Watches, clocks, radios, lamps and electronic equipment — all new products for this city — are made in small street factories. The new industrial area, on the Pukow side of the river is typical of Communist Chinese planning, with factories becoming almost completely self-sufficient economic units, each with its own residential district, schools, hospitals, public utilities, stores, entertainment centres, food farms and subsidiary manufacturing plants.

As the capital, Nanking never became an industrial or commercial city like Shanghai, Canton, Hangchow or Tientsin, where large foreign firms were established.

"There were only one or two big factories that I can remember, as well as a few smaller ones," said one European former resident, recalling the days before 1949.

Chinese Communist officials say the value of Nanking's industrial production now is 50 times what it was in 1949.

Sizeable Plants

The city, expanded to take in much of the surrounding countryside, now has a population of 2,700,000, although only about 1,000,000 live in the urban area.

Stretching for two or three miles along the river, about 10 miles northeast of central Nanking, are the tall chimneys and brick buildings of the Nanking iron and steel plant, a large power plant, and the Nanking Chemical Industry Company.

The chemical company, one of China's largest fertilizer producers, has between 70,000 and 80,000 people living inside its boundaries, officials say.

The Catalogues in Living Color

An unsurpassed opportunity occurs next week for all newcomers to Victoria to become acquainted with a vast number of garden plants as they grow in local gardens.

The Victoria Horticultural Society has long made an annual event of the Spring Garden Festival which this year enables the public to visit 16 selected private gardens over a period of three days starting next Thursday.

These lovely gardens are open to visitors by the courtesy of the owners, and the admission price of 75c for each day's group of gardens goes to the society to help defray costs. All the festival workers give their services voluntarily as members of the society.

For the convenience of visitors who do not wish to take their own cars, comfortable buses are chartered at a charge of $1 per person for the three-hour afternoon trip, plus the 75c gardens admission.

During each afternoon a convenient tea stop is pre-arranged, so that in a minimum of time visitors are served and go on their way refreshed for the latter part of the tour.

Possibly the chief value of this garden festival is in demonstrating how some rather unpromising sites have been utilized to produce satisfyingly beautiful settings for homes.

Rocky outcrops, areas swept by salt water winds, and native woodland lots have been carefully planted and tended to give lovely results and are now being graciously shared.

Few of us can afford to neglect an opportunity such as this to see living catalogues of plants.

Cuba Accuses, Then Woos U.S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Cuba today accused the United States of planning to hurl a military attack at her at any moment, but said she is willing to discuss mutual problems with the United States through regular diplomatic channels.

The Cuban radio in a broadcast monitored at Key West said President Osvaldo Dorticos read the accusation and the peace overture, signed by himself, and Prime Minister Fidel Castro, to Latin American diplomats whom Dorticos called to the presidential palace.

Dorticos asked the diplomats to relay his words to their respective governments.

He said the U.S. is making final plans to attack Cuba at any moment with military force in an attempt to overthrow the Castro regime.

If this happens, Dorticos said, Cuba's people will resist to the last drop of blood.

But, said Dorticos in the statement that assailed the U.S. as an economic and military aggressor, the Cuban government is in a position to initiate conversations with the U.S. through diplomatic channels, with a view toward peaceful solution of problems.

After those, he said, it might be possible to resume diplomatic relations.

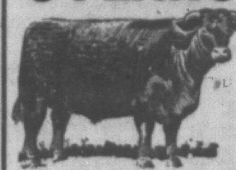

Dorticos said "The Cuban government is willing to hold diplomatic conversations with the United States and to reach a peaceful solution of all the problems."

Diplomatic relations were severed by former president Eisenhower last winter when restrictions were put on U.S. embassy personnel after a long succession of anti-American speeches and moves by Castro.

$24 Million Trade Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—A drop in Canadian export sales, especially to United States markets, helped produce a $24,300,000 trade deficit in February, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

SMALL CARS

Total exports fell to $371,900,000 for the month, down 13.5 per cent from $430,100,000 in February, 1960.

Sales to the United States dropped 19 per cent to $205,700,000 from $253,800,000 a year earlier, and there were also declines to overseas markets other than the United Kingdom.

At the same time, however, February imports declined 12.5 per cent to $396,200,000 from $452,900,000 in February, 1960. Though the main drop was in purchases from the U.S., imports from overseas were also down.

ERASES SURPLUS

The month's trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—wiped out most of a trade surplus created in January and left a tiny $1,400,000 surplus for the first two months of the year. Last year there was a $22,800,000 deficit in February and a $1,400,000 deficit for the January-February period.

Export sales for the first two months of this year were $828,800,000, down 2.7 per cent from $851,900,000 a year earlier. Two-month imports showed the same percentage decline to $827,400,000 from $852,300,000.

The sharp drop in February exports to the United States was accompanied by a decline in imports from that country to $274,900,000 from $324,200,000 a year earlier.

February exports to the United Kingdom rose to $71,300,000 from $67,900,000—a year ago, and imports declined to $44,800,000 from $48,600,000.

RAIL SUBSIDY RETROACTIVE

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today legislation to extend the $20,000,000-a-year rollback subsidy on freight rates will be made retroactive to May 1 when it is passed by Parliament.

Present legislation authorizing the subsidy, under which the federal treasury has put up $35,000,000 in the last 21 months to counteract a 17-per cent freight rate increase granted in 1958, expires Sunday night.

General Motors Earnings Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. has reported first-quarter earnings of 65 cents a share, lowest since 1953, when 57 cents was earned. Profit in the 1960 first quarter was $1.14 a share.

Profit totalled $188,000,000, compared with $324,000,000 in the like period last year, when General Motors was operating at a record level to make up for production lost during the steel strike in the fall of 1959.

Sales dropped to $2,724,000,000 from $3,658,000,000 a year ago.

Boost Dividend

TORONTO (CP)—Simpsons Ltd. have increased the dividend on their common shares from 17½ cents a quarter to 20 cents for the quarter payable June 15.

The increase follows an initial dividend of 25 cents by Simpsons-Sears Ltd., in which Simpsons holds a half interest.

Weather Slows Gas Drilling in B.C.

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

As if the B.C. natural gas industry wasn't having enough trouble, what with unusually mild weather contributing to a severe cut in discoveries and completions in the northeast area of the province, the partially-completed Sikanni River bridge had to go out with the ice this week and postpone hopes for easy and inexpensive entry into the Clarke Lake and Kotcho Lake gas fields.

Bell

Loss of the bridge makes it almost certain now that construction of the new gas transmission system, planned by Gas Trunk Line of B.C. Ltd., to tie in the area with West-coast Transmission will be delayed at least until the fall of 1962.

Extent of construction for this year will likely be upwards of 100 miles north from the Jedney field along the Alaska Highway.

25 PER CENT DROP

Recent reports on winter drilling operations in north-eastern B.C. show that far from showing a 50 per cent increase in completions, as was confidently predicted at the start, there has actually been a decrease of almost 25 per cent.

The weather was so mild that not only did operators have difficulties getting rigs into the area, they also had trouble getting them out. There are reported to be several rigs closed off by the thaw in various sectors and, while some of them may be utilized for summer drilling if the weather stays dry enough, there will be a considerable loss involved.

Although industry spokesmen publicly remain unfavourably optimistic about the gas reserve picture, failure of the past season to prove up any great amount of new reserves—as distinct from a few very good new wells—must be occasioning considerable worry.

Westcoast Transmission is reported to be buying up everything possible, both in B.C. and in northeastern Alberta, and is now negotiating to acquire Shell Oil's Worsley gas field in Alberta, about 65 miles east of Fort St. John.

NOT ADEQUATE

Just a little over a year ago the National Energy Board stated: "There can be no further export of gas from B.C. until substantial additional reserves become established." Present reserves, the board held, were not adequate for domestic needs and exports already authorized.

As an incentive to the industry in this province, the board promised that B.C. gas should have preference in further exports to western states of the U.S.

Whether by bad luck—or because B.C.'s gas reserves simply are not as great as was hopefully forecast, the position is little changed from what it was a year ago.

Alberta, meanwhile, continues to outstrip B.C. in volume of new reserves discovered, development drilling and gas production rate.

The question may soon arise as to how long the energy board can hold on to its promise to reserve export markets for B.C. gas if new, and great, reserves are not speedily found.

A year ago there was a deficiency of almost one trillion cubic feet in the B.C. gas reserves needed for existing demand. With the reserves proved up during the last winter and the minor amount of work—which can be done before the next winter season—that deficiency is likely to be no more than covered.

It's just possible, under the circumstances, that next winter may be a "make-or-break" proposition so far as increased gas export permits for B.C. are concerned. The markets won't wait forever.

Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. Ltd. has reported a hefty increase in revenue for 1960—$2,838,792 compared with 1959's $1,133,405. Company reports that 98 per cent of common shareholders reside in Canada and 99 per cent of preferred shareholders.

Annual meeting in Montreal of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada Ltd. heard from president W. S. Kirkpatrick that net earnings for the first quarter this year were down about 11 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Volume of metal sales was up, he said, but prices had not yet recovered from sharp drops in the last months of 1960. Lower average lead and zinc prices are expected this year.

Canadian Copper Refineries Ltd., subsidiary of Noranda

Mines Ltd., boosted price of domestic copper three-quarters of a cent to 28½ cents a pound delivered in eastern Canada effective today.

Meanwhile, further talk of price increases sent copper futures soaring at London. Demand for copper has been active in the U.K. and Europe and the uneasy situation in the Congo and Angola and strike threats in Northern Rhodesia has resulted in heavy buying.

'Atmosphere Is Dark' —Pearson on World

OTTAWA (CP)—In five chilling words Thursday night, the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize winner summed up his view of the world situation:

"The atmosphere now is dark."

Opposition Leader Pearson, former external affairs minister, was referring specifically to relations between the United States and Russia.

He said the Communists long-range strategy has not changed, though their tactics do. The West must expect "conflict inside coexistence".

Perhaps the most "sinister" resolution of the Communist summit conference last November in Moscow was a declaration that the Sino-Soviet bloc is eager to participate in wars of "liberation". The definition of "liberation" would be the Communists' own.

SHOULD JOIN OAS

Speaking near the end of a two-day Commons foreign policy debate, the Liberal leader suggested that the time might now be ripe for Canada to join the Organization of American States.

If the "tyrannical" government of Cuba was recognized as a menace to all the Americas and if that menace could best be dealt with by collective action through the organization, the government should give sympathetic consideration to Canada joining.

The recent intervention in Cuba was a clear mistake in United States policy. But it would be wrong for Canadians to take "a sort of sly satisfaction" from an American error.

Mr. Pearson's hour-long summation of some world problems was almost all dark. U.S.-Russian relations had deteriorated. The Communists were trying to destroy United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and his office. Only the middle powers could save the UN.

Some trends in NATO, if not checked, would result in disintegration of the alliance.

NATO'S PROBLEMS

NATO had three main problems: "dangerous" over-reliance on nuclear weapons; difficulties caused by the introduction of colonial problems in the alliance, and the opposition of one member—an obvious reference to France—to more political and military integration.

Mr. Pearson said there can be no salvation for Canada in isolation or neutralism. It would be dangerous to fall into a defeatist attitude of saying "a plague on both your houses."

CCF Leader Argue said U.S. "promotion and assistance" in the attack on Cuba was playing into the hands of the Communists.

KENNEDY CRITICIZED

If President Kennedy were determined to hand over Latin America to the Communists, this was the way to go about it.

One of the more novel suggestions in the debate came from Fred Stinson (PC—York Centre).

He proposed a three per cent surtax on incomes in Canada above $4,000 to increase this country's foreign aid program to $240,000,000 a year. The program now amounts to one $65,000,000 annually.

Major Party Candidates 'Ineffectual'

The four major party candidates in the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election were branded ineffectual politicians concerned only with trivial personality issues by Socialist Don Poirier, Thursday.

"They are politicians whose conception of statesmanship is a career of daily, trivial protests, who see nothing in politics but a struggle between individuals," Poirier told a campaign meeting at Sooke Community Hall.

"Those tactics no longer produce any effect either on the public or on legislative assemblies."

He said they were like people trying to clear a marsh by firing a revolver at mosquitoes one by one instead of draining the whole area.

Mr. Poirier also attacked Premier Bennett as being "at all times" on the side of management against labor.

He said Mr. Bennett's claim that unemployment is currently due to high interest rates, tight money and an over-priced dollar was false. The real cause is always over-production in relation to world markets, said Mr. Poirier.

Tidal Power Plan Killed

WASHINGTON (CP)—The International Joint Commission, after a year's study has turned down the $687,000,000 Passamaquoddy tidal power project as unprofitable under current economic conditions, it was learned today.

While turning down the New Brunswick-Maine proposal as an immediate probability, the commission said in a confidential report to the Canadian and U.S. governments that the issue be kept open in the hope that it might become economically feasible in the future.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the commission's Canadian section, said the project might not be economic at be feasible and that it would require supplementary power generated nearby to iron out the fluctuations that would occur in Passamaquoddy power generation.

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

10 Victoria Daily Times FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1961

SPORTS EDITORIAL

Now's the Time To Look Ahead

"The B.C. Racing Commission today announced Vancouver Island will have midsummer racing dates in 1961.

"Directors of Victoria's centennial celebrations hailed the move, predicted it would be a highlight of the city's 100th birthday festivities."

The above story has not yet been written. It may be. It should be.

This year, as for many years, Vancouver Island gets the tailend of racing dates in B.C. With it will come second-class horses and substandard jockeys, the cream of both crops having migrated south where purses are richer and meetings more sustained.

Despite the efforts of the operators to cancel the meeting and the relatively lack-lustre collection of ponies and pilots, Sandown last year had a record attendance and mutual play. How much busier the cash register would have been if better components were available is pure speculation. But there is no doubt that it would have been higher.

It is too late to change 1960 racing dates. It's not too late to consider midsummer racing at Sandown in 1961.

A valid case can be made for this proposition:

1. Victoria will be bulging at the seams next summer with the overflow of tourists from Seattle's Century 21. Without any professional sport to compete for tourist dollars, racing is certain to attract thousands of visitors, particularly if the brand of racing is worthwhile;

2. The B.C. Ferries and Victoria International Airport make commuting to Sandown no problem. This was proven repeatedly last year when mainlanders even resorted to charter flights when ferries and Trans-Canada Airlines were booked solid;

3. The B.C. Racing Commission, set up as a non-political body to direct racing "in the interests of the people of B.C.," is not obligated to track operators' lobbying to give the mainland choice dates at the expense of V.I.;

4. A (midsummer) break for V.I. would provide the stimulus for improved breeding on the Island, already noted as the home of Major Turley, B.C.'s top handicapper (and leading money winner) last year.

B.C. Jockey Club, born out of Exhibition Park (Bill Randall) and B.C. Turf and Country Club (Jack Diamond), might not be enchanted with the prospect of having their 80-day monopoly (May 12-Sept. 11) broken.

They might argue that extra shipping costs, lack of facilities at Sandown might result in lower play than they can expect at Vancouver even over a three-month spell.

But both are keen-sighted enough to realize that if you improve the track (as they are doing at Exhibition and could easily do at Sandown) punters will prevail with pockets full.

A break in Vancouver dates, in fact, might even stimulate late-season betting in Vancouver, which always has the Pacific National Exhibition as a built-in stimulator.

The over-all point is that a break won't harm Vancouver but it will help Vancouver Island.

And if B.C. racing is to grow as operators, horsemen and punters blandly predict, anything that will bolster the existing subordinate link (Sandown) will make the main link (Vancouver) stronger in the last analysis.

Bye Bye BOGIES

by BOB ROSBURG

Such a renowned shotmaker as Art Wall employs the so-called baseball grip on the fairways.

But it isn't a baseball grip at all because the left thumb remains on the shaft as prescribed for the overlapping. As professionals, we refer to it as the 10-finger or un-lapped.

The left hand remains exactly as it is in the overlapping grip. The only difference is that the little finger of the right hand does not overlap the index finger of the left, but is put on the club.

I have used this grip since I started playing at an early age when my hands were very small. They have remained relatively small. I have never had the ability to control the clubhead with the overlapping grip.

I feel my grip, the un-lapped, is beneficial to anyone having small or weak hands. This means it should help 95 per cent of the women, as well as a great many men.

The grip must give you control over the club, a sense of power as well as a feel—a

Bribe Scandal Spreads

NEW YORK (AP)—The spreading basketball scandal Thursday dragged in 10 more players from six colleges as a fantastic attempt to fix 29 games, mainly in the east and south, was disclosed by district attorney Frank S. Hogan.

Many of the fix attempts covering the past two seasons were successful, Hogan said, as Aaron Wagman, 29, a convicted football fixer from New York, was indicted on 37 counts of corruption and one charge of conspiracy.

The investigation, which was first broken open last March 27 with the arrest of Wagman and Joseph Hacken of New York, is continuing. The term of the investigating grand jury was extended until June 30.

The investigation threatens to rival the 1951 scandals which involved 33 players from seven colleges, in a wide

Jack Perrin has just about stamped out any hopes that he might move his Winnipeg Warriors to either Victoria or Vancouver.

Perrin told a press conference at Winnipeg Thursday that the Warriors will operate in the Western Hockey League next season under the guidance of 25 Winnipeg businessmen "if the playing schedule is suitable and the transportation equalization is initiated."

When Jim Piggott, who operated the Victoria Cougars for the past two seasons, was permitted to shift his fran-

Perrin said that he is not interested in taking his WHL franchise to Victoria. He plans to operate only in Winnipeg, although the franchise is for sale, "if anybody is interested."

chise to Los Angeles at last weekend's league meeting, it was suggested that Perrin might be persuaded to move his Warriors to Victoria since he has suffered heavy financial losses at Winnipeg in recent seasons. It was also hinted that he might consider a shift to Vancouver.

Thursday's announcement was a crushing blow to those who hoped he might, move either to Victoria or Vancouver.

Perrin is reported to be enthusiastic about the support received from Winnipeg businessmen Ray Vidler and Earl Simpson, who are spearheading the new committee formed to keep the Warriors at home.

Simpson, Perrin's new assistant, said his group "hopes to sell 3,000 season tickets" for Winnipeg's home games. Largest previous advance sales were in the 1954-55 season—Warriors' first in the league—when 1,200 season tickets were sold.

MEETING JUNE 8

League directors will meet in Calgary June 8, when the schedule is expected to be completed. Transportation equalization is expected to be discussed since Los Angeles and San Francisco have joined the league, which means additional travel expenses for other clubs.

Transportation equalization would mean that the whole league would contribute to ward excessive transportation costs brought about by the new setup.

'JUST WANTS PLAYERS'

Vancouver now must be considered one of the big problems of the WHL. The franchise is owned by the Pacific National Exhibition, which paid $225,000 of public funds for the franchise, but the club is virtually without players for next season. Unless able to recover a major portion of the purchase price, it appears the PNE has no alternative but to operate the club again next season.

Perrin, dodging a direct answer about Victoria when asked about chances of a move west, quipped any Vancouver hopes by saying: "Vancouver only wants my players." He refused to comment further.

Match Interrupted

MOSCOW (AP)—Play in the world chess tournament was interrupted Wednesday by the illness of Mikhail Tal, the defending champion. This is the second time since the start of the tourney that Tal has been too ill to play.

NEW WESTMINSTER

The Intercity Lacrosse Commission appears to mean what it says.

"Stricter refereeing and a tighter control of all games," were the orders from headquarters early this year, and there's no doubt that the referees are intent on following orders.

New Westminster did the expected Thursday, so their 12-7 victory over Nanaimo hardly rates as earth-shaking news today. But the manner in which the officials handled the season's opening game rates more than passing mention.

WELL-CONTROLLED

The whistle-toters shared honors with New Westminster in dominating the game. A total of 39 minutes in penalties were handed out.

Nanaimo was assessed 31, including four minors to Lisle Scott and three minors and a misconduct to John Ferguson. The winners drew only eight minutes in penalties.

Nanaimo suffered most times while holding the man advantage.

FAST START

Getting off to a fast start before 3,000 fans, New Westminster led 5-1 at the end of the first period and increased the lead to 8-1 by halftime.

Defenceman Bill Jobb was the top New Westminster point getter with three goals and two assists. Don Sepka had two goals, with the others coming from Jack Howes, Ken Oddy, Charlie Saunders, Bill Wilkes, Ivan Stewart, Jack Barclay and Cliff Sepka.

Don Morelli scored twice for Nanaimo with the others coming from Murray Thomas, Don Ashbee, Bill Russell, Al Fearon and Roy Bianco.

'Have-Nots' Setting Pace In-Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (CP)—Four victory-starved players, among them Al Balding of Toronto, led the $30,000 Texas Golf Open into its second round today.

Balding fired one of his hottest rounds of the year in recording a seven-under-par 65 Thursday, one stroke behind leader Don Whit. Frank Wharton and Don Fairfield were tied for third spot with 68s.

Whitt and Fairfield have won only two tournaments in the 'U.S. in six years and Balding last won a tournament in 1957. Wharton never has taken one.

Favorite Arnold Palmer was four strokes off the pace with a 67 and Gary Player, leading money-winner on the tournament trail, settled for a 69.

Sixty-one pros and one amateur bettered par figures.

For Personal Reasons

NEW YORK (AP)—Gabe Paul, who left Cincinnati to become general manager of the new Houston club in the National League last November, Thursday was named general manager of Cleveland Indians.

He declined to elaborate on the reason for the switch other than to say he left Houston for "personal reasons."

THOROUGHbred Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Lincoln Road, the thoroughbred who finished second to Tim Tam in the 1958 Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Florida Derby, died Thursday.

Balding fired one of his hottest rounds of the year in recording a seven-under-par 65 Thursday, one stroke behind leader Don Whit. Frank Wharton and Don Fairfield were tied for third spot with 68s.

Whitt and Fairfield have won only two tournaments in the 'U.S. in six years and Balding last won a tournament in 1957. Wharton never has taken one.

Favorite Arnold Palmer was four strokes off the pace with a 67 and Gary Player, leading money-winner on the tournament trail, settled for a 69.

Sixty-one pros and one amateur bettered par figures.

Fans Remember Old-Time Hero

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ray Caldwell, who helped pitch Cleveland Indians to their first pennant and world championship by winning 20 games in 1920, is nearly blind from cataracts on each eye.

But he learned this week that the public never completely forgets baseball heroes.

He was given an offer of free surgery to restore his sight. The offer came on Caldwell's 73rd birthday.

An article in a Cleveland newspaper, explaining Caldwell's plight, also produced several cheques and cash contributions.

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY
Doug Peden

NORTH SURREY — I went back to school Thursday and in some ways it was like the far-back days when I was troubled with Homer and homework. The classroom looked like a thousand others, the familiar blackboards were nailed to the front wall, lecturers did their best to distribute knowledge and some students scratched down notes for future reference.

That's about where the similarity ended. Pupils were older, ranging from a pink-cheeked 22 to a balding 59, and all appeared to be paying strict attention. Classes were longer and there was a casual familiarity between students and teachers.

This is the B.C. fish and game branch's second in-service training course for conservation officers—the fellows we used to call game wardens. Held at the Green Timbers forestry training school here in North-Surrey, the course is a steady two-week grind that winds up Saturday after nine hours of examinations.

Approximately half of the province's conservation officers took the course last year. The remainder are absorbing knowledge this time, along with one representative each from the photographic, parks and travel branches of the department of recreation and conservation, making up a total of 30 students.

If it does nothing else for a visitor, the course presents final proof that the days of the old-style game warden have gone to join the Dodo. It's not too many years ago that the popular picture of a game warden was one of a dour policeman who prowled around looking for people to pinch. Today's conservation officer is expected to be a complex individual—assistant to biologists in fish and game management, efficient in administration, friend of sportsmen, capable in predator control, big brother to youngsters, an understanding enforcement officer and an expert in public relations.

Protective Feeling Toward Wildlife

Public relations is one of the subjects stressed during the course, which also includes classes on fisheries and game management, biology, administration, work procedures, predator control, water safety, first aid, bush survival, and talks on liaison between other branches of the department.

Classes at Green Timbers, starting at 8:40 a.m. and continuing into the evening, take up about nine hours each day. Enthusiasm and examinations ensure that the men in training tend strictly to business.

Exchange of ideas during the course has done a lot to promote better understanding between branches and personnel of the recreation department, talks by U.S. wildlife officials explain problems and remedies in other areas and discussions appear to produce a more sympathetic outlook at the problems of sportsmen.

It adds up to a good example of why the B.C. fish and game branch is considered one of the most progressive on the continent, even though the government keeps its budget far below what it should be.

In case anybody thinks the "new look" conservation officer is going to excuse violations of regulations, it might be pointed out that they must still be capable enforcement officers to do a good job and they all have a protective feeling toward wildlife. The next one you meet may be sympathetic and more courteous than the old-timers, but he can pinch just as hard. And instruction at Green Timbers has shown him the correct procedure to make his charge stand up in court.

St. Mike's Reaching For Junior Cup Mark

EDMONTON (CP)—Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are in a strong position to win the Memorial Cup this year for a record fourth time.

Majors, who now lead the best-of-seven series 2-0, whipped Edmonton Oil Kings 4-1 in the second game Thursday night. They won the first game 4-0 Tuesday night.

St. Michael's winners of the title in 1934, 1945 and 1947, share with Toronto Marlboros, Oshawa Generals and Winnipeg Monarchs the honor of having won the cup three times.

A crowd of 5,112 saw Kings, bolstered by two players from the Manitoba Junior League, fail to solve St. Michael's good defence. When Edmonton did get away from the Majors, the Kings found goalie Gerry Cheevers of Toronto was making key saves. Cheevers blocked 31 shots and Edmonton goalie Paul Sexsmith, 24, Defencemen Ken Stephenson of Winnipeg Braves and forward Bryan Hextall of Brandon were dressed by the western champions.

Terry Clancy, 17-year-old son of former National Hockey League great Frank (King) Clancy, scored two goals to spark St. Mike's.

Sherlock Barges Into Derby Scene

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Jacob Sher's unheralded Sherlock has proved himself a prime Kentucky Derby candidate with an effortless six-length win in the $34,300 Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

The three-year-old son of Correspondent-Sammiato took a commanding lead at the first turn Thursday and easily wrested the $22,295 first money from Alberta Ranches' favored Flutterby and eight other derby eligibles.

Mr. Consistency, California Derby winner, was three-quarters of a length back in third spot and two and one-half lengths ahead of Loyal Son.

The mutual pool was more than $95,000 for the race and Sherlock's backers got back $24.40, $10 and $5.40. Flutterby paid $4 and $2.60.

Of Flutterby, who won the San Felipe Handicap and was second in the California Derby, jockey Johnny Longden said: "He ran a good race but there wasn't much speed in it."

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Connie Carlson, age 13, of Seattle, Wash., for her question.

What Makes the Sap Go Up a Tree?

The topmost leaves of the tallest tree drink liquid water toted all the way up there from deep in the ground. Rich nourishing chemicals are added to the liquid water by the tree itself. For a tree is a plant and green plants make their own groceries from air, water and sunlight. The basic food is a simple sugar which is manufactured by green chlorophyll in the leaves and green twigs and stems. Complicated chemical processes in the tree convert this basic sugar into fats, proteins and carbohydrates to be used as needed.

The daily diet of food is dissolved in the tree's liquid sap and floated around to the living cells much as your blood stream circulates dissolved food and oxygen around your body. But you have a pumping heart to keep your blood stream circulating. A tree has no heart. Instead it relies on a few simple laws of nature to keep the sap running through every leaf and twig, way up to the very top.

One of these laws is called osmosis, a name which comes from an older word meaning to push. It concerns two liquids, each containing dissolved chemicals, and a skin or membrane. When one liquid is a weaker solution than the other it is drawn through a membrane to join the stronger solution on the other side.

Every root and every tiny root fibre is covered with just the right kind of membrane to make the law of osmosis work. The root cells are filled to bursting with rich sugary sap and this solution is much stronger than the watery moisture in the ground. As the ground water seeps into the root cells, the sap is pushed on and on up stairs.

Evaporation Exerts Pull

Meantime, another law of nature is helping to pull the elevator of sap higher and higher. On a summer day, the tree loses many gallons of water through its green leaves. The leaves of an oak tree may lose 100 gallons of water during a summer's day. The loss exerts a pulling pressure on the liquid sap, causing it to rise still higher.

Throughout the tree, the liquid sap is under the pushing pressure of osmosis from below and the pulling pressure caused by evaporation from the leaves. This should be enough to keep the elevator of sap running from the deepest roots to the topmost twigs. But the very nature of the watery sap also adds a boost to the elevator system.

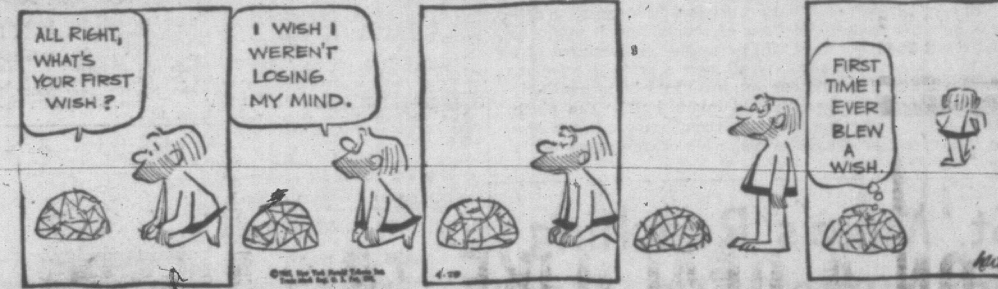

Water is made of tiny particles, sometimes called molecules. And, as everybody knows, water is wet. This is because its molecules tend to cling together and follow the leader. Water is wet and, whenever it can, it flows. The watery sap is very willing to follow the leader in an unbroken stream, all the way up the tree.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Let's have some cheerful news and a couple of smiles to ease our worries.

Garry Moore got royally ribbed by the Friars at a dinner in his honor at the Astor. "He's very good to his family — he never goes home," claimed Morey Amsterdam.

"He's a success in TV because his personality doesn't detract from the commercials. He has more acting talent even than Ed Sullivan," added Morey.

Durward Kirby paid Garry such a sweet tribute. I thought the violins would strike up. "I don't mean to be sacrilegious," said Kirby, softly and solemnly, "but Garry reminds me of Saint Joseph — which is a small, but dull town in Missouri."

TANIA VELLA... pretty defector

"I hope you liked your former job!" Jack E. Leonard, the mc, barked at Kirby. (Note to lovers of St. Joe: Durward was kidding. Simply loves the place.)

Peter Lawford (leaving for Europe with wife Pat) said: "I got myself a writer for this speech" — and read a legitimate telegram to Garry from JFK.

Johnny Carson told Garry: "The only reason I come to these d— things is, I think every one of them is a trick to get me on. This Is Your Life."

He added, for Peter Lawford's benefit, that the Communists aren't going to invade Cuba: "They can't get past the American supplies on the beach."

One of my favorite beauties, Tania Vella, the Yugoslavian swimming champ who defected several years ago, will be in the forthcoming show, "A Call on Kuprin," one of the few shows not produced by David Merrick... Wonder if she knows about Jack Benny going on to the big "Carnival" party at the Lantel, piled high with exotic food. As Jack was wandering about aping at the food, Merrick said, "Is there anything you'd like Jack?"

Jack answered: "Yes, a paper sack."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... The "Camelot" producers benched Robert Goulet for the rest of the B'way softball league season—he sprained a leg in the first game.

Henry Fonda, asked for a

Earl's Pearl: "A friend we know insists there's still a recession on; 'My wife doesn't even bother to go through my pockets.'"

Today's Best Laugh: A fellow mentioned he'd put a 50-ft. extension cord on his phone: "Now that the weather's nice I want my daughter to stay outdoors more."

Wish I'd Said That: Bird-watching can be fun—if you start with a couple of swallows. Jet travel is so fast, that by the time you ask the airline stewardess what she's doing tonight, she's doing it. That's Earl, brother.

Press Reports Aided Cuba Defeat Rebels

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy's plea for voluntary restraints in publishing news that might prove helpful to the Communists appears to be a further reflection on the Cuban debacle and the part the United States played in it.

A high administrative source, considering himself a sadder and wiser man after the ill-fated Cuban rebel invasion, maintained that some news stories written before and during the invasion attempt helped Fidel Castro smash the commando-type force and capture most of the 1,300 men.

Castro himself later bragged that American newspaper reports assisted his intelligence appraisal. However, there is some indication his major intelligence came from spies planted in rebel ranks.

HAD GIVEN WARNING

For weeks Castro had warned his followers of a possible invasion attempt. Long before the general American public became fully aware that something was afoot.

There even have been unconfirmed reports that his spies helped make movies of the rebel in training, with the films slipped out to Havana, and that the Bay of Cochinos, where the rebels landed in the swampy southern side of Cuba, was actually a trap with Castro waiting armed with heavy artillery.

At the same time Kennedy found himself surrounded by advisers who, the administrative source indicated, so badly underestimated the Cuban situation that the president was shocked by the stunning defeat. He is reported reluctant to accept any more "assumptions" from the Central Intelligence Agency and the defence department until Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former army chief of staff, makes a thorough investigation.

SOUGHT RESTRAINTS

It's in this atmosphere of having suffered personal loss in prestige as well as loss of prestige for the United States that Kennedy now asks newspapers to think twice about publishing news that may not serve the national interest.

Speaking before the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York Thursday night, Kennedy said:

"Every newspaper now asks itself, with respect to every story: 'Is it news?' All I suggest is that you add the question: 'Is it in the national interest?'"

Washington newspaper men say that because of the heavy competition for news, a voluntary form of restriction or censorship simply won't work. The American constitution guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Civic Precinct Wins City Council Backing

The city council Thursday adopted a plan establishing the Cathedral Hill area as a civic precinct.

But it referred to its centennial committee a proposal that land on the west side of Quadra directly opposite Pioneer Square be acquired to create a park as a centennial project.

Adoption of the precinct, first mooted several years ago in a Capital Region Planning Board report, will be followed by rezoning bylaws to protect the area from undesirable commercial and light industrial intrusions.

Boundaries of the precinct, as finally approved by the aldermen, are: south side of Fort to Quadra, south on Quadra, Mears, Vancouver, Burdett, Quadra, McClure, around the B.C. Hydro building, and 200 feet west of Blanshard to Fort.

CLOSED OFF

Sections of Courtney and Rockland within the precinct would be closed off and two-thirds of the eight-block area

The population density of the United Kingdom, highest in the world, is approximately 552 persons per square mile.

'VICIOUS CIRCLE'

Chatterton Hits Bus Cuts

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton Thursday said he will ask intermunicipal committee to oppose the B.C. Electric's request for Public Utilities Commission consent to re-vamping its bus operations.

Reeve Chatterton said the reduced schedules and route changes sought for Aug. 1 will only result in a vicious circle that will cut passenger traffic and force further reductions. Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, a frequent critic of the area's bus service, agreed with him.

SCHOOL ARTISTS 'EXCEPTIONAL'

Final Concert Tonight

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Exceptionally fine musical and dance performance standard exhibited by various schools in the Greater Victoria Music Festival has been winning admiration and high praise from adjudicators during the past two weeks.

Whether they hailed from England, the United States or Vancouver, all have found the quality at least equally as good, and in many cases incomparably superior, to what is being done in their own centres.

Tonight, starting at 8, all parents and citizens who profess an interest in our schools, will have an opportunity to see and hear for themselves samples of this important and excellent work.

The concert which will be held in Central Junior High School auditorium, is the final honor performance in the 1961 festival.

It will be devoted entirely to public and private school groups with only short presentations of individual bursary awards.

Top-ranking choristers, instrumental ensembles, dance teams and a speech choir will make up the program.

Senior instrumental performance will be by the Greater Victoria Schools Orchestra, led by Miss Marie Milburn. Greater Victoria Junior String Ensemble will also be heard under direction of Tommy Tucker.

BANDS AND CHOICES

Colquitz Junior High School band and St. Margaret's Grade 2 rhythm band will complete the instrumental representation.

Choirs invited to take part are Uplands School folk song choir, Oaklands Grade 2 and Grade 4, Cloverdale composite elementary choir, Oak Bay Junior High folk song group, Victoria High mixed choir and St. Margaret's School choir.

Uplands, Grade 4, Monterey, Grade 6 and Oak Bay Junior High will provide dance groups and Oaklands Division 18 will represent the winners of speech choir events.

Results: Class 66, Junior high school girls' choir—1, Esquimalt, 86/85, 171, 2, S. J. Wills, 84/84, 170, 3, Oak Bay, 85/82, and Central, 84/82, 167.

Class 67, Junior high school boys' choir—1, Lansdowne, 86/85, 171, 2, Central, 85/84, 169, Class 64, Private schools, primary and/or nursery class—1, St. Paul's Kindergarten, 85/85, 172, 2, St. Christopher's School, 84/87, 173, Class 65, Private school choir—1, St. Margaret's School, 87/80, 172, 2, Norfolk House School, 87/80, 173, Class 66, Mixed junior high school choir—1, Central, 85/84, 170.

Class 69, Junior high school folk song—1, Oak Bay, 85/89, 178, 2, Colquitz, 83/85, 168, 3, Lansdowne, 80/85, and Elizabeth Fisher, 82/82, 165, Class 70, High school mixed choir—1, Victoria High School, 90/81, 181, 2, Oak Bay, 89/80, 179, Class 71, High school folk song—1, Victoria, 177, Class 72, High school girls' chorus—1, Victoria, 89/80, 180, Class 74, High school boys' ensemble—2, Oak Bay, 89/85, 179, 2, Victoria, 89/87, 178, Class 76, High school girls' ensemble—1, Victoria, 89/80, 179, 2, Esquimalt, 89/89, 178.

Class 143, Rhythm band, primary grades only—1, St. Margaret's Grade 2, 177, 2, St. Margaret's Grade 1, 173, 3, Gordon Head Grade 1, 171.

OUT OF THE MORE THAN 1,000 ENTRIES in Victoria Music Festival, not more than 10 received a mark of 90 or better. Among these few top scorers was the Oak Bay Senior High School Quartet. "In 25 years of adjudicating I have never heard better quartet singing," said adjudicator Timothy Turner, seen here with, left to right, Ken Smith, Roberta Scott, Frances Scott and Bill Ritchie. Foursome who sang two German folk songs, did much work on their own, rehearsing together in pre-school hours.

6 YEARS OLD 'THIS YEAR'

Greater Victoria School Board will accept children into Grade 1 this fall who will be six years old by Dec. 31 of this year, not last year as erroneously reported Thursday in The Times.

Children who will be five years old Dec. 31 of this year can qualify for kindergarten classes.

Registration for both groups will be held at all elementary schools each school day next week between 3 and 4 p.m.

Pesticide Poisons In Drinking Water?

Possibility that drinking water is being poisoned by insecticides and weed killers was discussed at the convention of waterworks engineers and administrators at the Empress Hotel Thursday.

Prof. T. Skrinde of Washington State University said the long-term effects of these poisonous chemicals, called pesticides, on the human body is not known, but there is evidence that these compounds are being washed or leached into water supplies to become continuous.

"A good indication is the increase in the number of fish kills over the past few years from areas in the United States which have been treated with these chemicals."

Addressing the 34th annual conference of the Pacific Northwest section of the American Waterworks Association, Prof. Skrinde said: "Pesticide production has doubled in the past 10 years to a total of 1,000,000,000 pounds per year, and it is expected to double again by 1970."

The professor said toxic traces in the water supply are "minute," but they pass unchanged through ordinary water treatment facilities. He urged the need for research to find a practical analytical method of detecting the presence of pesticides and removing compounds from water supplies.

Discussions

The conference continued today with discussions on plastic water pipe, photographic underground surveys and "The Philosophy of Municipal Water Rates."

Victoria city engineer James Garnett is chairman of the hospitality committee looking after some 500 delegates and their wives from B.C., Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Alaska.

Mrs. Garnett is chairman of the ladies' committee.

Celebration Rejected

LISBON, Portugal (Reuters)—Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, 71, premier and defence minister, Thursday marked 33 years in power. Salazar refused to sanction an official anniversary celebration and spent the day working in his office.

FREE TAXPAYERS OF COSTS

Fees for Adoption Considered

TORONTO (CP)—The possibility of charging fees for infant adoption will be discussed at next week's convention of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies.

Waldron Goff of Brantford, executive secretary, said today if a resolution to this effect was passed it would require government approval since amendment of provincial child welfare laws would be required.

He said he felt Ontario's taxpayers should not be asked to subsidize adoption costs when those having their own children have to pay their own bills.

Richard L. Whittington, executive secretary of the Kent County CAS, told the society's board of directors in Chatham, Ont., Thursday a fee of $25 for adoption by relatives or $50 for others would produce revenue of about $63,000 annually in Metropolitan Toronto.

'Show Your Colors' Groos Tells Reeve

Car Prices Blamed On Tories

Effect of increasing tariffs on British automobiles has been a $200 boost in price of Canadian "compact" cars, Liberals were told Thursday.

The tariff increase meant prices of British cars went up between $150 and $500, lawyer Allan Cox told an Esquimalt-Saanich campaign meeting for Liberal candidate David Groos.

"You will find the Canadian compacts are $200 more than they were a year ago because there is no price competition any more," said Mr. Cox.

He said the Liberals would cut tariffs and taxes to ease unemployment, where the Conservative government had raised both.

HIGH RATES

He said fiscal policies in Ottawa have resulted in high interest rates in every field. Municipalities are finding it extremely difficult to borrow money at 6 per cent or more.

UNDER LIBERAL MEDICAL PLAN

The public would pay part of the cost of a Liberal national medical insurance plan through income tax levies, Esquimalt-Saanich candidate David Groos disclosed Thursday night.

He told a meeting of 25 people at View Royal Community Hall that a Liberal government would immediately institute the medical scheme.

It would pay medical bills, yet still preserve the personal doctor-patient relationship, he said.

WIDENED LATER

Later the plan would be widened to include dental, drug and eyeglass costs.

Instead of premiums:

"People would pay income tax on the amount of money the government paid out on their behalf. They would each year receive a slip showing this Progressive-Conservative candidate George Chatterton was challenged Thursday to "come out and show his colors" by Liberal David Groos.

In the first personality clash of the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election campaign, Mr. Groos accused his Tory rival of running on his record as reeve of Saanich.

He told a meeting at View Royal Community Hall Mr. Chatterton has not faced up to the true issues of the contest.

TOO MUCH APATHY

"Unfortunately there seems to be a great deal of public apathy about this by-election," said Mr. Groos.

"I am satisfied that the reason why the public interest has not been aroused is that the other candidates, and particularly the government candidate, have just not stood up and told the people what they and their parties stand for."

Mr. Groos said he could understand this of George Hahn, the Social Credit candidate, because he had no national party; he could understand it of Glen Hamilton, of the New Party, because his party has not been properly formed.

"But I just cannot understand this in the case of Mr. Chatterton."

"So far you would think he is running for the reeveship of Saanich again. His headquarters sign proclaims "Chatterton," not "Conservative". He speaks only on municipal matters. He hasn't said a word to indicate that he approves of the government's record. He is running on his record as reeve of Saanich."

'GOOD REEVE'

The Liberal candidate conceded Mr. Chatterton "is a good reeve." "But what has that got to do with the problems facing our national government in these troubled times?" he asked.

"I challenge him to come out and openly tell the voters whose confidence he seeks in a new field."

"Is he willing to stand on the Tory record, the government's action to meet the problem of unemployment?"

"Is he fully satisfied with the government's position—whatever it may be—with respect to nuclear weapons?"

"In short, is he a Conservative at all?"

"I am asking him to come out and show his colors."

Mr. Groos told a questioner at the meeting he would be willing to meet Mr. Chatterton in a public debate or on television.

NEW STUDENTS' 'HELL WEEK' TO BE PROBED

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The University of Pennsylvania plans to investigate charges of painful hazing which the student newspaper said was practised on fraternity pledges during a recent "hell week."

The Daily Pennsylvanian said in an article that students were branded with hot irons and underwent "agonizingly painful" paddings.

School trustees Thursday were accused of being "remiss in their duty" by a teacher who resented criticism against the profession for its attacks on the Chant report.

James Cairnie, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers Association, lashed at an editorial in the B.C. School Trustees Association news letter which levelled the criticisms against professional educators.

"Accusing teachers of headline hunting is certainly no answer to the criticisms raised by the teachers," he said, in denouncing the editorial's suggestion that "carping" criticism from teachers appeared aimed at headlines rather than better education.

"It appears a very petty approach to a very serious business," Mr. Cairnie said.

He said the editorial's attacks were "completely unwarranted" and the public expected and appreciated teachers' opinions of the Chant report.

"Our role in education surely entitles us to express our views. It rather amazes me that the trustees treat so lightly the people involved so directly in education.

"Those criticisms that have been made can hardly be classed as 'carping' ones."

Civic Leaders Hail 'Saving' Of Historic Fort Rodd Hill

Fort Rodd Hill has been "saved" by the federal government, which has promised to develop it as a national historic site, it was announced Thursday.

The news was hailed by local civic officials.

Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale telephoned the decision to Saanich Reeve George Chatterton.

"He has taken control of the fort under the National Historic Sites and Monuments Act and it will be developed as a national historic site," said Mr. Chatterton.

The Esquimalt Harbor area, totalling 44.4 acres, was up to now held by the Crown Assets Disposal Corp.

It was up for sale to all comers.

"I am very glad to hear it has been adopted," said Mayor Percy Scurren. "That has great possibilities as a tourist attraction."

"There are too many of the old historic places all over the country being just torn down. It is a crime," said Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch.

PRODDING

"The thing to do now is to start prodding them to see they do some work there," said M. Aubrey Kent, president of the Chamber of Commerce, which had a committee set up to urge development of the area.

Stage, TV Actor, C. Ontkane, Dies

TORONTO (AP) — Charles Leonard Ontkane, stage and television actor and producer, died today of a heart attack at St. Michael's Hospital. He was 46.

A native of Vancouver, Mr. Ontkane was best known in the last decade for his roles in popular television series such as Tugboat Annie, The Wayne and Shuster Show, Cannonball and The Mohicans.

On stage, Mr. Ontkane played a major role in Born Yesterday, which went on tour.

IN HOSPITAL today recovering from a minor neck operation is actress June Allyson, 37. Doctors described the surgery as successful. Miss Allyson was recently divorced from Dick Powell.

'Middlebrows' Needed Rotary Told

Television and tallfins are not enough in the development of a country, Victoria Rotary Club was told Thursday.

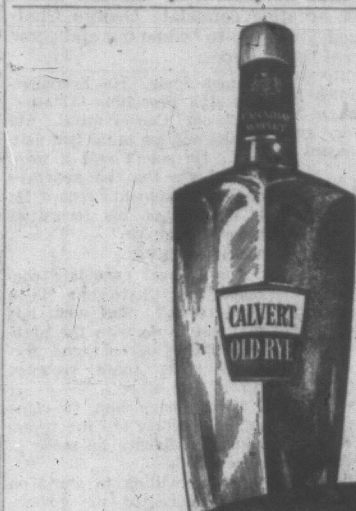

"Unless a man is culturally developed, he is only half a person," said Peter H. Bennett, director of administration for the Vancouver Festival Society.

"Unless we are enriched by the arts we are only half alive; we are immature both as people and as a country."

Mr. Bennett urged that culture should be put in its proper place in people's lives.

"The arts can and should be part of everybody's lives," he said, "since the war—but we cannot as the people in Europe." "We have done extremely well in developing the arts in person in this province feels and culture are not the property of an exclusive few."

Is 56,211 miles exceptional for one set of tires?

This actual mileage was obtained by Mr. E. Maxwell of Port Credit, Ontario.

In a way this is a record. But other car owners, driving hard or on bad roads, would be likely to get less mileage. And owners of low horsepower cars might get more. It all depends on driving conditions.

That's why mileage claims are controversial. Mileage depends not only on tire quality, but on the type of car, the way it is handled and the roads on which it is driven.

What one driver gets, another may not.

The important fact to remember is the difference in mileage you get between brands.

Your problem is how to determine that difference. You could find out by driving your car on various brands then comparing the mileage. There is an easier way. Look at the results of the Comparative Mileage Tests conducted by Goodyear.

In the last 3 years, Goodyear tires delivered more mileage than 28 competitive brands of equal price. Fact: the Goodyear Custom Super-Cushion gave 15% more mileage than Brand "A", 14% more mileage than Brand "B".

Think about these facts when choosing new tires.

The chances are, you will agree with the majority of Canadian drivers. And most car manufacturers, too. Goodyear tires give better value than any other kind.

There is a difference in tires. Visit your Goodyear dealer this week.

-and you'll buy GOOD YEAR

670 STUDENTS ESCAPE NEARBY PLANE CRASH

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—A light plane crashed and burned in the parking lot of a Minneapolis grade school today about 20 minutes after the school's 670 students were dismissed for the day.

The pilot of the plane was killed. There were no injuries to anyone on the ground.

The pilot was tentatively identified as Oscar Lakin, 39.

The plane was demolished. Its engine landed in the yard of a house next to the school and only the tail section was recognizable.

HEALTH OFFICER WORRIED

Dysentery Alarm Sounded for V.I.

An epidemic of dysentery similar to that which struck central Vancouver Island a year ago could occur "next week, next spring, or two years from now," according to Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit.

"I do not speak of what may happen," he wrote in his annual report, which was published this week. "I am reporting what has happened. It may happen again. Next time, it may be mild or it may bring death."

600 CASES

Last February, March, and April there were at least 600 cases reported between Nanaimo and Duncan. Dr. Mackenzie believes the number attacked by the disease probably exceeded the number which escaped.

It was the result of poor sanitation, he said, and "does not speak well of the fastidiousness of many of our citizens or the effectiveness of some of our sanitary works."

In discussing specific cases, he cited Alberni as a city with a number of serious and dangerous sewage problems.

SEWERS NEEDED

"No progress was made to improve the frequently deplorable conditions in 1960," he wrote. "The health unit finds itself in the difficult position of advising against the use of certain lots or areas in the city until some satisfactory sewage disposal arrangements can be made."

"The only satisfactory answer to Alberni's drainage problem lies in the construction of a municipal sewage system."

Mayor Mabel Anderson was elected in December, 1959, on a platform which favored continued use of septic tanks instead of establishment of a sewer system.

He warned of contamination of Cowichan River which, if allowed to increase, will make the river "dangerous as a water source, unpleasant as a recreation area, and useless as a haven for game fish."

Much of the responsibility for keeping the river clear rests with the village of Lake Cowichan, at the river's outlet from Cowichan Lake.

EXERCISE CARE

"This increase in pollution need not occur if the village exercises care in waste disposal. The village would do well to survey a suitable site for a sewage disposal area and set this land aside now."

for future use. The same principle applies to the growing communities on either side of the lake.

"It is hoped the city of Duncan will remove its contribution to the problem during the next year or so."

'ONLY FAIR'

"It is in the power of the people of this area to prevent the destruction of their lakes, rivers and beaches. The past record has been only fair. Better long-range planning is needed. This planning should be backed up by proper installations before the situation becomes critical."

RCAF War Hero Guilty of Fraud

OTTAWA (CP)—Neil Fraser, singled out by King George VI as one of the air heroes of the Second World War, was placed on probation for three years after he pleaded guilty Tuesday to embezzlement. A credit manager with Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Limited, Fraser admitted swindling $5,823 from the company.

Holder of the Distinguished Flying Medal and bar, the former RCAF gunner "spent the money gambling," his attorney said.

Forest Fire Answer —'Don't Have Them'

Provincial governments are going to have to pay for any forest fire-fighting by the army or RCAF, federal Forestry Minister Hugh John Flemming said Thursday.

He was elaborating on statements he made at a convention in Nanaimo Wednesday. He told reporters in Victoria:

"The armed forces are always willing to assist provinces with any emergency—riots, floods or fires."

But: "It isn't going to be all free."

Mr. Flemming also doused hopes of B.C. officials that Ottawa might contribute financial aid toward fire costs.

"I have never heard about

Nation of Salesmen Role Needed to Keep Markets

Canada must become a nation of salesmen instead of a nation of "order-takers" to hold its share of such big world markets as forest products, federal Forestry Minister Hugh John Flemming said here Thursday.

"Industry should work more closely with government offices," he said.

The former New Brunswick Tory premier was on his first visit to Victoria. It was strictly a business trip, he said.

All Canadians must realize that forestry is the country's biggest trade commodity—worth twice as much as wheat in annual sales, said Mr. Flemming.

'ORDER-TAKERS'

"We have to become a nation of salesmen, and I believe that since the Second World War we have been a nation of 'order-takers'."

"It hasn't been necessary to sell; it is now."

Mr. Flemming said industry and government are becoming conscious of this and should work together to expand markets. Already, he said, there is evidence that this is being attempted.

Two such new markets for forest products from Vancouver Island, he said, are Japan and Belgium, now receiving their first shipments.

PRICES NOT TO BLAME

While lumber firms must be price-conscious to hold their markets, he said he felt that so far prices were not responsible for losses suffered by the than price cuts.

Efficient operations and salesmanship would lead to better results, he said, rather than participating in Tory campaigns.

Mr. Flemming said he was not participating in Tory candidate George Chatterton's Esquimalt-Saanich campaign and "I don't know too much about the election."

He did, however, meet Mr.

Chatterton at Government House and at his hotel.

Mr. Flemming would not be drawn out on prospects of a general election. "I wouldn't want to say," he replied when asked when the vote might be held.

He also declined to comment on rumors that he might step up into another cabinet post. He saw his present portfolio

THE MAN IN THE DOCK, a familiar sight during trials at Victoria Courthouse, will become a thing of the past if British Columbia follows the lead of Nova Scotia. There the prisoner's dock is being removed from all courts (and replaced by an ordinary table and chair) on the ground it is an "indignity"

MONTE ROBERTS

You may find this hard to believe (I do, too,) but this dear old grandad is, for the first time in his too-long life, a-hopin' and a-wishin' he could win something for free.

Never having won anything for free, it seems a little too late to start hoping.

But, mutha, do I ever want to win the scoby-doo beast the Quarter Milers have up for grabs at the Autorama in the Curling Rink.

The Curling Rink! What a scene! If I win this bear, I'll be curling, but for real and way out in left field.

And I wish to let the Quarter Milers know—not that I'm trying to influence them, as I don't want any of the cats to go dancing with the heat—that I'll never let the beast become a pig.

All I want is to get in the pilot's seat of this can—I guess a semi-customized of a different name but the same manufacturer can be called a can?—and go "zoom, zoom" on the pipes.

Man, that would be shacking, and I ain't just shucking.

If I—oh happy day—win this Quarter Milers prize, I promise it will never be a gook wagon, or a Sally Rand.

Furthermore, I promise I will never drive it like a choke or a squirrel.

You can depend on me, quarter milers, to stay out of trouble with a fuzz.

Honest, men, I'll never be a shot rodder, no matter how hot the rod. I'll be for show, not go.

And if there's a time for dragging, it will be on the dragstrip you're hoping for—not on a city street where the last word is apt to be "Shoot the juice to me, Bruce."

TRANSLATION: This aged character has purchased several chances on the handsome automobile being offered at the Quarter Milers' Autorama, and promises to take good care of it, stay away from police trouble, and do his best to help the milers get their racing strip, where youth-fuul steam can be let off without anyone being scalded.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Members of the ornithology group, Victoria Natural History Society, will be host to members of the Vancouver branch who are coming here Sunday to make a study of skylarks over the Saanich Peninsula.

HMCS Cape Breton, returning from a cruise in California waters, was due at Esquimalt at 4:30 p.m. today, instead of 11 a.m. Saturday, as previously announced.

Cape Breton is the Pacific Command fleet maintenance ship.

Plans to form a Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' Association in Victoria will be made next Wednesday in the composite mess at Bay Street Armouries.

Originators of the plan believe that such an organization would revive the spirit of comradeship they enjoyed in war years. All former soldiers who served with the RCME prior to 1944 are invited to attend Wednesday's meeting, which starts at 8 p.m.

Two 18-year-old boys were fined $20 each when they pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to being minors in possession of beer.

Both were checked in cars. They were Toby L. B. Hird, 468 Obed, and Lawrence George Wood, 3842 Merriman.

Violet Bissett, 321 Caldecote, was fined $10 in Saanich police court Thursday for lighting a bonfire without a municipal permit.

Druggist H. M. Sutherland today asked city council to limit parking in front of his store at 2061 Douglas to 15 or 20 minutes.

"I have for the past several months been plagued with workers from nearby my place of business occupying what I consider to be my customer parking area for two or three hours at a time," he wrote.

Interest in leasing or buying city-owned acreage south of the Thetis Lake Park entrance was shown today by M. C. Stewart, 267 View Royal.

He wrote city council asking what the price would be for using it as a horse pasture.

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Skirt Mountain, off the Island Highway.

The leader section will leave at 8 a.m. on Sunday for an expedition to Leechtown via the Sooke potholes.

Elected to the board of directors of the Community Welfare Council are:

Mrs. May Campbell, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Mrs. R. G. McKee, John J. Allman, Richard Bower, C. Gordon Elworthy, Darshan Johal, Jack Lee, Prof. E. L. Martens, Miss Ruby McKay, Conway Parrott and James Fox.

Skies will be overcast tonight, and Saturday will be cloudy with rain, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Temperatures will range between 45 and 58 degrees and winds will be easterly from 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Sunday will be a day "between storms," he said. It will be mainly cloudy, but mild and with the hope of short periods of sunshine.

Power of Victoria's family court has been widened. It will be allowed to deal with cases of assault causing bodily harm involving husbands and wives.

Up to now the court has been able to handle only cases of straight assault. Assault causing bodily harm was returned to police court.

A cabinet order gives the court jurisdiction under Section 717 of the Criminal Code, which deals with assaults.

The family court has power to bind a guilty party over to keep the peace, or to jail him—or her.

Capital City branch of the Color Photographic Association of Canada will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, 322 Plasket Place, next Monday at 8 p.m. There will be discussion on "What Makes a Good Picture" and instruction slides will be shown.

The 24,000 ton P & O liner Chusan will be off the Victoria waterfront about 11:15 a.m. Monday, to pick up customs and immigration officials in Honolulu for Vancouver from Honolulu and the Orient.

AWARDED $250, EXPENSE-PAID QUEBEC TRIP

Times Man Wins on Cariboo Series

REPORTER CRIBBENS

Norman Cribbens, a writer for the Victoria Times, has won one of the country's top travel writing prizes for his graphic stories of a vacation trip through British Columbia's Cariboo country to the historic community of Barkerville.

Mr. Cribbens will receive a $250 cash award plus an all-expense paid trip for two to Quebec via Trans-Canada Air Lines.

He won the prize in competition with entries from across the country entered in the second annual Travel Writing Award Contest of the B.C. government in conjunction with Press Journal Magazine. Judging was done in Toronto.

The awards will be presented to Mr. Cribbens by Ron Gadsby, representing the Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, at a dinner preceding the annual Suds 'n' Skits party of British Columbia newsmen in Vancouver Saturday night.

Mr. Cribbens took his wife and two children, Alan, 13, and Jill, 11, on the trip with him.

Norman has always been a travel-minded man and his newspaper career has taken him through jobs in Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and on correspondent assignments to many of the cities of Europe.

After working for the London Bureau of the Canadian Press in the postwar years, he took on the job in 1952 of putting out a Canadian weekly newspaper known as Canada Review, launched by publisher Roy Thomson to serve expatriates and Canadian tourists in England and Europe.

He edited and promoted Canada Review until 1955 when Victoria Times publisher Stuart Keate invited him to return to B.C., where he has since worked as business editor, reporter in the Legislative Press Gallery, feature writer and columnist for The Times.

"I love to travel," he says, "and I like to encourage other people to enjoy it as I do."

Premier Digs First Sod Saturday For Salvation Army Sunset Lodge

Sod-turning ceremony for the proposed Matson Sunset Lodge of the Salvation Army will be performed at 3 p.m. Saturday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The lodge for the aged is to be built on Dunsuir Street on the site of the old Matson home at Mount Adelaide overlooking Victoria Harbor.

The sod-turning ceremony will mark the first tangible step towards building the $750,000 structure which will offer accommodation for 120 single men and women and 10 married couples.

A drive for $245,000 to enable construction start will follow.

Prayers will be offered by Archbishop Harold Sexton and the address will be given by Col. Robert Watt, Toronto, territorial financial secretary for the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda.

VANCOUVER BAND

The Vancouver Temple Band, under Bandmaster Clifford Gillingham, will play selections with singing led by Brig. L. Pinred, divisional commander, B.C. south, Vancouver.

A prayer and benediction will be given by Lieut.-Col. Hannah Jaynes, Toronto, women's social service secretary for Canada and Bermuda.

At 8 p.m. in Victoria High School a festival of music will be presented by the Vancouver Temple Band under Bandmaster Gillingham. Commissioned Officer T. W. Milner, bandmaster of HMCS Naden Band, will be guest conductor. There will also be guest artists performing, including five clarinetists from the navy band.

Actual launching of the campaign for $245,000 will be held in the Pandora Avenue Citadel at 3 p.m. Sunday at which the address will be

Civic Staff To Seek Legal Advice

City Hall Employees' Union today sought legal advice following a reported secret decision by aldermen to stand by its earlier rejection of a conciliation award.

The award would have cut quitting time from 5 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. starting Monday and continuing through the summer until Sept. 21.

"We are not going to make any statement on council's action until we have legal advice and have contacted our bargaining representative," said union president Gordon McKenzie.

OVERTIME SLIPS

Union officials previously had threatened to instruct members to turn in overtime slips for every 4:30 to 5 p.m. period worked starting Monday if council did not withdraw its rejection of the conciliation award.

If successful, the overtime bill would run to $220 a day.

The union maintains that the conciliation award was binding under the agreement signed by city council to accept awards in return for a no-strike undertaking by the union.

But aldermen have insisted the conciliation award did not fall within the agreement because it was made by a single conciliation officer instead of a three-man board.

First Applicant For Scholarship

First application for the city's $250 scholarship award established to commemorate the 1959 Royal Visit was received at city hall today.

Marion Alexander, a Grade 12 student at Mount View High School, made the application.

The fund was set up to provide a scholarship over a period of five years to graduates of city high schools proceeding to Victoria College to train as physical education teachers.

given by Times publisher Stuart Keate, campaign chairman.

Hans Gruber of the Victoria Symphony will be guest conductor during a program of music by the Vancouver Temple Band. Guest soloists will be John Dunbar who will sing the "23rd Psalm" and

Mrs. Ann Harris who will sing "Beside Still Waters."

The drive gets functional Monday and will last a month. There are more than 700 volunteer canvassers participating.

The women, under Mrs. Allan Campbell, will conduct the residential canvass by letter and telephone—there will be no doorbell ringing—while the men contact business and industry.

The campaign combines two appeals, $200,000 to enable construction start of the home and $45,000 in the annual Red Shield appeal for general Salvation Army work.

Two Men Drown In Boat 'Party' Off Dallas Road

An unsuccessful search was made today by police for two men missing and believed drowned following what appeared to be a drinking bout on board a boat near Brothie Ledge off Dallas Road on Thursday afternoon.

Apparently obeying a whim, and pretending they were skin divers, they plunged fully clothed into the icy water, and eventually disappeared.

They are Joseph de la Ronde and George MacFarlane, both of Balmoral Apartments, 820 Balmoral.

They jumped from a 25-foot outboard-powered fishing vessel, of which MacFarlane was a part owner.

TWO SURVIVED

Surviving the escapade were Charles Sutherland, Brunswick Hotel, 545 Johnson, and Joseph Madden, 820 Balmoral, second partner in the vessel, registered as TG 1453.

They were incoherent when interviewed by city police a short while later, and aboard the boat were one empty one-gallon wine jug and a second gallon jug containing about 25 ounces of wine.

An immediate search was launched by two Pilotage Authority vessels and a navy emergency craft, but it was called off at 8 p.m.

RCMP made a search of neighboring shores this morning, while the RCMP launch Sidney, based at Ganges, patrolled back and forth along the waterfront without success.

QUESTIONED

Sutherland and Madden were being interrogated by RCMP at press time today. Police said there was no indication that charges would be laid, and that no decision had been made regarding holding of an inquest.

The garbled report given police by the survivors started with their leaving the Johnson Street fishermen's wharf at 11 a.m. on a crab-fishing expedition.

All four were about 40 years of age.

'AWAY WE GO'

"We did some drinking on the trip," Sutherland said. "I'm putting on my diving suit and away we go," then dove into the water. De la Ronde said the same thing and went in. Madden went in after them.

"I can't swim, so I stayed in the boat," Sutherland said. "I saw them thrashing around for a while, but couldn't do anything. Madden was the only one who got back into the boat."

He said the incident occurred at about 2 p.m.

WAVING SHIRT

Two hours later James Flaherty, 2346 Hamiota, and John Irwin, 1580 Despard, riding in their runabout "Flavin," saw the boat at rest a few hundred yards off shore near the breakwater, with one man waving a white shirt.

The gas tank was empty. They took Madden in their boat to Fishermen's Wharf in James Bay, where police were called, then returned to Sutherland and assisted in bringing the fishing boat ashore.

Sutherland and Madden were kept in the city police station overnight, then were released to the RCMP today.

Drivers Warned On Arena Way

City traffic engineer Norman Worsley today warned motorists it is an offence to ignore signs prohibiting left turns along Arena Way.

The signs were erected last week on traffic islands at Discovery and Herald intersections of Blanshard to enable free movement of traffic around the Hudson's Bay department store parking lot.

MESSY PICNIC PAPERS littered Beacon Hill Park today after Harvey the Jaycee Litterbug got up to his usual tricks. There were several litterbins provided nearby but Harvey and his friends ignore litterbins.

HARVEY'S HAD IT

Big Hunt Tonight For 'the Monster'

By HAL JONES

Harvey the litterbug has had it.

Victoria Jaycees report they now have enough evidence to lock the monster up for life—providing they can catch him. Harvey—he escaped from Jaycees early in the week—came out of hiding again today to pull one of the dirtiest examples of litterbugging ever seen in Victoria.

He waited for the rain to let up and went on a picnic in beautiful Beacon Hill Park. Then with gay abandon, he proceeded to throw his paper plates and cups and wrappings in all directions.

SEARCH TONIGHT

Jaycees will send out a search party tonight to track down the creature who has so successfully littered the town this week—the Junior Chamber's anti-litter week.

The Jaycees' mystery litterbug who has walked the downtown area every lunch hour dropping litter this week, was recognized by a record six persons on Thursday.

Free passes to the Jaycee fair May 15-20 went to Miss Lorna Aitkens, 4472 Tindall Avenue; Mrs. L. D. Parkins, 1330 Mitchell; Ted Smith, 3178 Carrol Street; R. W. George, 1356 Finlayson Street, and Mrs. D. Perry, 1019 Mason Street.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Children were playing softball . . . my daughter, running for home plate, was touched by the ball, then the tagger immediately dropped it. Was my daughter out?—D.B.

A. She was safe. According to official baseball rules, if a player is tagged when the ball is alive and the runner is off-base, the ball must be securely held by the fielder "before and after the tag."

Q. My mother celebrates her 100th birthday soon. Whom do I notify to receive the traditional congratulations?—T.C.P.

A. Write the secretary, Government House, Victoria, explaining full details.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to advise on legal or medical problems. No will attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Large Catch of Halibut Makes News This Weekend

By PENNY SAVER

Big news in the food picture this weekend is that local fishing boats have unloaded a substantial catch of halibut. This is selling at 53 cents a pound, either in slices or in the piece.

For those that like carp, there's some, caught in lakes on the mainland, that's priced at 39 cents a pound. Other good "buys" are skate, selling at 25 cents a pound and genuine haddock, priced at 59 cents a pound.

Anyone who has ever tasted smoked black cod will realize what a "buy" this is at present price of 69 cents a pound. Baked in milk with a topping of butter, it's a gourmet's dish.

If you've put off serving a strawberry shortcake until such time as prices are reasonable, this is your weekend to splurge! "Special" in store I was in this morning allows you to get four baskets for $1.

As another dessert, why not thrill your family with a delectable rhubarb pie. Locally grown, this is also on "special" at five cents a pound.

Large heads of lettuce, beautifully firm and fresh, sell for only 21 cents and school lunches will be improved if you slip a banana in as an extra. Special price on them this weekend is 59 cents for four pounds.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

She Should Exercise But Doesn't Need a Diet

Q. "Do I have to keep on a diet to lose weight at my waistline or can I just exercise? I am 5 feet, 3½ inches tall and I weigh 120 pounds. I have a medium frame."

A. You certainly are not overweight. If you have a medium frame you are underweight, and are just about right for a small build. You can redistribute your weight with exercise. Take waist-slimming exercises and do not diet. Just be sure that you do not eat more than usual because exercise may whet your appetite. If you or any of my readers would like to have the waist-slimming exercises I have used with great success in my classes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them.

Q. "I am 21 years old and engaged to be married. My problem is that my breasts have never developed. My mother and my fiancé want me to have the operation to remedy this situation. I feel very inferior as a woman. This may sound silly to you, but I have been made fun of as a younger girl and cannot stand being humiliated any longer. I can afford to have this operation so far as finances are concerned. Please give me the name of a doctor who would perform it."

A. I do not think that we should allow any physical defect to ruin our happiness, but I certainly do not think you sound silly. Only a very small percentage of plastic surgeons perform this operation, but if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request I will reply to you personally.

Q. "For two weeks I have been holding my calorie intake to 1200 a day but instead of losing weight I am gaining. What am I doing wrong?"

A. Perhaps you will have to cut your intake a bit lower. Try 1000 a day. This depends on many factors, such as your build and weight and metabolism and physical activity. I suspect that you may not be counting your calories correctly. Be sure about this. Watch out for the extras or "trimmings" such as small, in-between-meal bits, sauces and seasonings, and the manner in which you cook your food. For instance, a baked potato, with salt and pepper and a dot of butter, is fine for the reducing diet, while fried potatoes are taboo.

Q. "Can I use a reducing diet if pregnant?"

A. You cannot cut your food intake too low when pregnant because of the needs of the growing child. Follow your doctor's directions concerning diet and the number of calories you should have.

Years of Extra Life for Valuable Rugs and Carpets

Do you really know why rugs and carpets wear out? Constant use does dull their beauty by covering bright colors with dirt and grime. But far worse is the grinding away of the actual fibres from which the rug is made by sharp, gritty particles deep within the pile. This can be prevented only by professional "deep cleaning," as done by experts at the CARPETERIUM.

The people at the CARPETERIUM have the knowledge, use only the finest special cleaning agents and have the best equipment in Western Canada.

This cost is "most reasonable" and estimates are FREE. Phone the CARPETERIUM at EV 3-2861. Only the CARPETERIUM at 3110 Wharf St. can give you rugs and carpets the professional "deep cleaning" that will guarantee years of extra life.

The CARPETERIUM on Wharf, phone EV 3-2861.

JOERG—the Swiss chef at the Colony Steak House Restaurant, suggests—from the gourmet menu—as an appetizer Fresh King Crab Cocktail to follow with "Pepper Steak," a New York cut steak, sautéed in butter, and served in a creamy red wine sauce (a treat for lovers of hot food). This delightful dinner is served in the finest tradition of The Steak House. For reservations phone EV 5-4511.

Grandmother Bait

OTTAWA (CP)—Bazaar tables laden with "grandmother bait" got special attention Wednesday from Mrs. John Diefenbaker, expecting to become a grandmother for the second time "any minute now."

The prime minister's wife opened a sale of original Canadian luxury goods. They were made by totally-disabled persons who formed a new industry, Marina Creations, that last year realized sales of $27,000.

"I have opened many a tea and many a bazaar, but never one like this," Mrs. Diefenbaker said in paying warm tribute to the workers. Two of them spend most of their time in iron lungs.

She vied with other grandmothers in selecting items with lots of child-appeal.

Toothsome Beauty

Nature's finest set of teeth will do nothing for you if they're not cared for. Regular visits to your dentist and scrupulous attention to mouth care pay dividends in beauty.

Norma Wildgoose, commentator with "Terylene Showtime, 1961" presentation to be shown in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room at a coffee party Saturday morning at 11 and again at the tea hour at 2.30. The show, which starts an eight-week tour of Canada here, features ensembles for men, women and children. Special models are travelling with the show but children's garments will be presented by Victoria youngsters, Joan Ashmore, Bonnie and Barbara Braithwaite. Morning show is sponsored by the Evening Opti-Mrs. Club, and the tea showing by Victoria Kinetics Club.

DEAR ABBY

Put It on the Line, Dearie!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY—We recently purchased a clothes dryer and now the young doll across the hall keeps trapping my husband into bringing her "things" in after she's used our dryer. Am I wrong in thinking it is too personal a chore for my husband to be sorting and folding her "unmentionables?" I still don't know how to operate the dryer, or I would do it.

SOMEBODY'S WIFE. DEAR WIFE: Inform the "doll" across the hall that if she wants to use your dryer, she should operate it herself and sort and fold her own "unmentionables." This is no job for your husband.

DEAR ABBY—Please don't laugh at me. I am 20 years old, a Junior in college, and am considered a good-looking guy with a gift for making interesting conversation with girls on a variety of topics.

The trouble is, when it comes time to say good-night to a girl, I stutter, mumble and my shyness comes out.

I have gone with many good-looking girls who have come right out and asked me to kiss them goodnight. I still can't. I don't think there is anything evil about kissing a girl, but I can't bring myself to do it. Am I normal?

DEAD EARNEST. DEAR DEAD—People who wonder whether they are "normal," usually are. If you find yourself "stuttering and mumbling" and unable to kiss a girl, don't let it worry you. You haven't "wanted to" badly enough yet.

DEAR ABBY—I am in love with my best friend's husband. I live near them and spend a lot of time at their house. I don't know how it happened, but we fell in love and I couldn't help myself.

I really like his wife and she likes me. When I visit her in the afternoon, I leave before her husband comes home because I can't stand to see him kiss her hello.

No one but this man and myself knows how we feel about each other. He says he loves his wife, but he loves me, too. Am I crazy for believing him? What can I do about this mixed up feeling? I am 28 and have never been married. He is 33.

MIXED UP. DEAR MIXED UP—The thing you can do about your "mixed up feeling" is to let it die from lack of nourishment. Stay away from him. And stay away from his home.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BROKEN-HEARTED PARENTS: Your case is a sad one, for which there is no solution. Children have been "punishing" their parents for as long as parents have been punishing their children. Accept it.

Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to ABBY, 205 Park Road, Burlingame, Calif., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send 25c and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, 205 Park Road, Burlingame, Calif.

You'll be Amazed, Amused and a Bit Confused

By MONTE ROBERTS

Up until a couple of days ago, I had never seen a wax museum and was entirely happy to leave it that way.

Then I was assigned to preview the Royal London Wax Museum in the Crystal Garden.

Now I am a wax museum aficionado—a situation which surprises me greatly.

This isn't because of the wax figures themselves, excellent though most of them are.

It is because of the artistically beautiful settings in which they appear, cunningly lighted to bring out the best features of the Tussaud craftsmen who created them.

When you visit the Royal London, you'll find more than one effigy which you won't applaud as an almost-breathing replica of a real human being as you know him or imagine him.

You will find many which are the spittin' image of the models, and this is to be expected, due to the painstaking research and manual skill which went into the work.

But you won't find a single setting which isn't a breath-taker.

An hour at the Royal London will leave you amazed, amused, and a bit confused. The designers have done wonders with the space at their disposal.

Each display speaks eloquently of the imagination of the chief designer, Derek Dero, and of the workmanship of those who helped bring his ideas to life.

Here are a few of the impressions which stick with me, two days after a preview under the guidance of William Enman, president of London Wax Museum, Ltd., of British Columbia, which operates the Royal London.

The Garden of Literature, where the great men of letters are congregated in a group which would be awe-inspiring if brought to life: Dickens, Burns, Hans Christian Andersen, Kipling, Sam Clemens, Shaw, Voltaire—the last with a gleam in his eye and a tilt to his jaw indicating he's about to bite off another of his satirical criticisms.

Sir Edmund Hillary (one of the best effigies in the exhibit) with a cunningly contrived backdrop of peaks dwindling into the distance as he and Sherpa Tenzing near the top of Everest.

Queen Victoria and Benjamin Disraeli in a very-Victorian room of Balmoral Castle, authentic to the last thread in the fabric of the settee on which she is regally poised while Disraeli exercises his charm and intelligence.

The symbolic setting for the heroes of the Second World War—a bombed out London home, circa 1940, as a background for an ingeniously lighted group including Churchill, King George VI, Viscount Montgomery, De Gaulle and Roosevelt.

And, of special interest to this sea-bound island, the deck of a sailing ship on which stand great captains such as Vancouver, Cook, Columbus, Cabot and Nelson.

By and large, the figures out of the past seem to come off more successfully than those of contemporary times. This may be because, as an example, the Churchill effigy depicts him in newspaper photos or news-reel shots today.

On an overall assessment, the London Wax Museum, Ltd., of Victoria, has brought to this city an asset which will be talked about, argued about, and described in detail from here to Edmonton and from Toronto to Tucumari.

ANCIENT HISTORY

Effigy Offered As Sacrifice

By JOHN H. STEELE

Manager, Royal London Wax Museum

An attraction steeped in historical tradition opens in Victoria Saturday, when the Royal London Wax Museum becomes the first permanent exhibition of its type ever to be established in western North America.

For more than 25 centuries men have marvelled at the eerie likeness of sculptured wax to living flesh—marvelled, made magic, and sometimes worshipped.

Wax does not endure for long, so little survives from the remote past, but records on stone are there for us to read: we know that the inhabitants of Assyria and Babylon knew the wonderful properties of the material, and 500 years before the birth of Christ an unusually humane Pharaoh of Egypt decreed that wax figures should be sacrificed to the gods, rather than human beings. In 300 B.C., Alexander the Great had his own chief wax modeller; his name was Lysistratus of Sydon.

The custom of making wax effigies of deceased kings started in England in Anglo-Saxon times, and continued until the 18th Century. The effigy was laid on-top of the coffin as it was carried through the London streets to Westminster Abbey, after which it stood by the side of the grave. Later many were collected for the famous "Westminster Waxworks."

Black Magic, Sorcery, Healing

Far back beyond recorded history lie the origins of using wax models for black magic and sorcery, and the practice still persists today. It was believed that a sure way to bring pain, or even death, to an enemy was to prepare a model of him and either stick pins into it or else burn or break it, depending on the amount of destruction that was sought.

It is heartening to remember that wax models could also be used to heal. For centuries models of the human body and its organs have been used for medical research and the training of students.

The wax museum as we know it today probably had its start at the time of the first Queen Elizabeth, although the first reference is found in an advertisement dated February 6, 1696. The attraction announced itself as made by "Mrs. Mills, the greatest artist in Europe."

For a while a Mrs. Salmon held sway as the most important waxwork impresario until the rise to fame of the brilliant and renowned Madame Tussaud.

This lady was born Marie Grosholtz in Strasbourg, and at the age of six she moved to Paris where her uncle, Philippe Curtius, presided over a cabinet of wax models that was the talk of Paris.

Before long the little girl was taking an active part in the modelling, and showing such skill as to surpass her uncle.

Death Mask for Dearest Friend

Marie was for a while attached to the Royal Court at Versailles, where she instructed the King's sister, Princess Elizabeth, in the art. The relationship between the two ripened to friendship, and met a tragic end.

The madness of the French Revolution swept away the old world, Marie was forced to work for the revolutionaries, and the day came when she was handed the head of the princess, still warm from the guillotine, and forced to make a death mask.

Following her marriage to M. Tussaud, Marie escaped to England when the Peace of Amlens brought a lull to the Napoleonic Wars in 1802. For many years she toured the British Isles with her family of wax notables until in 1835 settling in Baker Street, London, and founding the famous exhibition that has become her memorial.

Such is the tradition behind Victoria's newest attraction, but traditions are living things, and can always be improved.

Calling 'The Tune'

Responsible for sets, lighting and positioning the wax effigies was Derek Dero, right, shown here "helping" Sir Anthony Van Dyck paint a portrait of King Charles I. Dero also was chief designer of the wax museum at Niagara Falls, Ontario, and of the Crystal Biblical Gardens at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

THE DEROYS

New World—Why Not New Name?

The team of artists who created the settings and set the lighting of the London wax museum consist of three members of the Coppenhaver family of England—who have adopted a new surname calculated to be more easily remembered in North America.

Now making their home in Toronto, the name of their choice is Dero, and their firm is Dero Displays. Most of the imagination and ideas come from 27-year-old Derek, a man of sensitive emotions whose belief is: "scenes in wax are history frozen in time."

Putting Derek's ideas into practice are his father, Stan, and younger brother, Terry, 17.

TWO HITS

The Dero Displays team had scored two notable hits on this continent, prior to taking on the Victoria museum assignment.

In Niagara Falls, on the Canadian side, they created the setting for a wax museum which, since 1959, has attracted a steady stream of visitors.

In Gatlinburg, Tennessee, a town of slightly over 1,000 inhabitants, they put together a $500,000, 10-scene recreation of the life of Christ.

Eighty wax figures are in the unique display at Crystal Biblical Gardens.

EXPOSITION

The setting was created on open land, and then a building was erected to house what could best be called a Biblical Exposition.

Derek, the guiding "imaginer" behind the London Wax Works exhibit in Victoria is one of those rare types with no sense of time when he starts a job.

On dozens of occasions during the past seven weeks, he has worked as much as 24 hours at a stretch.

His own assessment of the result is: "There may be larger wax displays, but this will be the most beautiful in the world."

HE CAN'T LOSE THAT EVIL LOOK

The effigy of Adolf Hitler in the Royal London Wax Museum appears where millions wished he had been during the war years—behind bars.

He is milder looking than one would assume, with his ridiculous moustache and untidy look of hair—fighter than photos would indicate.

Yet, even in wax effigy, there is an evil gleam in his eyes.

Was Julius Caesar Poor Beauty Judge?

Realism, based on meticulous research, will result in some surprises for the first-time visitor to the Royal London.

One of the greatest of these is the appearance of Cleopatra—the Cleopatra whom history recognizes mainly through her association with Julius Caesar.

The two are portrayed against a carefully executed backdrop depicting the Egypt of 48 B.C.

But what is startling is the head of Cleopatra. There is no winsome beauty here, none of the girlish attraction one would imagine she would need to fascinate Caesar.

Instead, the wax simulation shows a head that could only be called strongly chiselled. The features are big, coarse.

They are, however, accurate, in the opinion of Egyptologists.

History says they met, loved, and were briefly happy—but both met tragic ends.

STAR-GAZERS WERE WRONG

A group of loyal citizens of the U.S.A. learned a few facts about their own military history the other day from John Steele, manager of the Royal London Wax Museum.

He was displaying the effigy of George Washington in the lobby of a Seattle hotel, when a bystander criticized the general's uniform.

"You've only made him a three-star general," he said. Whereupon Mr. Steele, who was born, raised, and educated in England, read a brief lecture which pointed out the U.S. didn't have a four-star general until Pershing.

NATHAN TANNER
big transition

Tanner Quits Oil Industry For Church

CALGARY (CP)—Nathan E. Tanner, former Alberta cabinet minister and for nine years a prominent figure in Canada's natural gas and oil industries, is making the final business adjustments this week in his transition to a full-time life in the Mormon Church.

He is in the process of severing connections with eight prominent companies whose affairs range across a wide commercial scope, to become one of 37 general authorities in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Mr. Tanner, 62, will however for a limited period retain the presidency of Merit Oil Limited, a company he formed 1½ years ago.

His new work is described by Mr. Tanner as a "full-time, lifetime" assistant to the executive committee of the Mormon Church.

His name came sharply before the public eye in 1958, when as president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited he was criticized by the Borden royal commission on energy in an interim report.

The commission said Mr. Tanner would have shown better judgment by relinquishing Trans-Canada stock options after the federal government pledged assistance in financing the Alberta-Toronto pipeline project.

Mr. Tanner had been given an option on 60,000 Trans-Canada shares when he joined the company in 1954, and another 10,000 was given as an option in the name of Mrs. Tanner.

Most of the options eventually were taken up, an action which drew wide criticism in and out of the House of Commons and later before hearings on the commission.

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Nazi documents aimed at tying Adolf Eichmann directly to planning for the "physical extermination" of Jews were presented today in evidence by the prosecution at the trial of the former SS colonel.

Earlier the three-member panel of judges conducting the case ruled that the court could not order Israeli authorities to grant immunity to ex-Nazis coming here to testify in the trial.

Court President Moshe Landau said instead that witnesses unwilling or unable to testify in Israel could be examined in their own countries. Statements of three ex-Nazis were submitted.

The documents presented by Chief Prosecutor Gideon Hausner included the minutes of invitations to, and the attendance list of the Jan. 20, 1942, Wannsee conference in Berlin at which senior Nazis went into details of the "final solution" of the Jewish problem.

EICHMANN ON LIST

Among the documents on the Wannsee conference was a memorandum prepared for the conference by Eichmann's Jewish affairs office and the attendance list bearing Eichmann's name.

The minutes of the meeting said the Nazi plans were for Jews able to work to be put into large parties in German-occupied eastern territories "to build roads whereby the majority will, no doubt, be eliminated by natural decrease."

The minutes added that "the final remainder, as they will doubtless be the most resistant group, will have to be dealt with accordingly, for if they were released they would form the germ of a new Jewish increase."

Jews over 65 would go to ghettos, such as the Resenstadt in Czechoslovakia, along with Jews severely wounded while fighting for Germany in the First World War and Jewish holders of the Iron Cross, first class.

Embassy Detached

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — About 70 persons shouting "death to Castro" and "death to Russia" plastered the facade of the Soviet embassy Wednesday night with gallons of red and blue paint. The demonstrators smashed one embassy window with rocks, broke the glass of an embassy automobile and poured acid into it.

Council Refuses to Push For Professional Hockey

The city council Thursday refused to suggest to the Memorial Arena Commission that it make a vigorous effort to provide professional hockey next season.

Aldermen defeated a motion making the request which was sponsored by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. M. H. Mooney.

Other aldermen pointed out that poor turnouts showed there was no support for professional hockey and the Arena should be free to make its own decisions.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said keeping professional hockey here last season cost the Arena about $13,000 in revenue. Ald. A. I. Curtis said the loss probably could have been more than made up if the same amount of time had been given to public skating.

Two Rockland area residents supported and one opposed the

COUNCIL REVERSES UNPOPULAR DECISION

'Come From Behind Win' For Clusters

City council Thursday reversed its decision to remove downtown cluster lights.

Aldermen rescinded their previous resolution to put in $200,000 mercury lighting system by a 5-3 vote and decided to meet soon to figure out the best way of rehabilitating the cluster system.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean, chairman of the street lighting committee and most vocal proponent of replacing the downtown clusters, sniped futilely at several colleagues during the debate and drew some caustic counterfire.

He criticized Ald. A. I. Curtis and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow for changing their minds because of merchant and public reaction to the mercury lighting proposal.

PRESS ATTACKED

Ald. McLean also attacked the press for over-simplifying the issue as a pro and anti-cluster light battle.

He said the clamor of protest was similar to the outcry raised by non-Victorians against a power line easement through Thetis Lake Park which he resisted.

Declaring he would not be swayed by numbers of protests alone, Ald. McLean said no opponents who spoke to him about the mercury lights gave any constructive suggestions on how to solve the lighting problem.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow shot back that he had been persuaded by public opinion it would be a mistake to remove the clusters and he was glad the public gave its opinions to guide council to the best decision.

TALKS TO FLOCK

"Dr. McLean is used to talking to a flock but unlike him I don't have a congregation that listens to me," said Ald. Edgelow.

"My flock is the citizenry of Victoria and when they talk to me I do the listening because that's my job."

Stung, Ald. McLean who is a Presbyterian minister, jumped to his feet and snapped that he did not refer to Ald. Edgelow's vocation and asked "that he show me the same respect."

Mayor Percy Scurrell also tangled with Ald. McLean, several times calling him to order for trying to continue debating points after the decision was taken.

Earlier, Ald. McLean drew the mayor's fire for arguing that the reversal of policy meant council should consider putting cluster lights back on the 700 block Yates Street where they have given way to mercury lights.

"That is not under discussion," retorted the mayor. "We have voted to retain the cluster lights that now are on the streets so why try to bring in something else."

TIE VOTE

A motion to authorize immediate rehabilitation of the cluster lights, at a cost of $38,000, and replacement of existing supplementary lighting on Government and Douglas, at a cost of $25,000, was defeated because of a tie vote.

Ald. Curtis opposed the supplementary lighting replacement because it would have meant modern steel poles in mid-block on the two streets which would clash with appearance of the cluster standards.

Council finally agreed to refer the matter to the street lighting committee, which will be attended by the whole council, to bring in a recommendation.

AT NANAIMO

Plastic Bag 'Lift' Runs Afoul of Law

NANAIMO (CP)—The Fisheries Research Laboratory's plans to move a huge net structure into the ocean ran into department of transport regulations Thursday.

The structure was to be transported by helicopter into nearby Departure Bay, where it would suspend a big plastic bag for underwater plant experiments.

However, the helicopter firm said regulations prohibit moving such an object over populated areas. There are reports that residents of the area complained.

The gear, equipped with floats, measures about 25 feet in diameter. The plastic bag was to be inserted later and filled with filtered sea water.

Colonies of sea plants would be introduced for a study of their living habits in the absence of animals which prey on them.

$3,250 Damages to Child

Six-year-old Margaret Mutter of Cobble Hill was awarded $3,250 damages in B.C. Supreme Court in Victoria Thursday afternoon for severe injuries suffered in a collision at the intersection of the Trans-Canada Highway and Shawnigan Lake Road.

Her father, George Mutter, was awarded $790 for expenses incurred from her injuries, and $1,000 for destruction of his gravel truck in the accident, which occurred on May 19 last year.

Mr. Justice Arthur E. Lord awarded the damages against Norman Joyce and his son Ronald, owners of a logging truck which collided with Mr. Mutter's truck.

Mr. Justice Lord found that Joseph D. Fortin, driver of the Joyce's truck, was to blame for the accident. He dismissed a claim by the Joyces against Mr. Mutter.

George Gregory, counsel for Mr. Mutter and his daughter, said the girl was pulled from the wreckage of the gravel truck in which she was riding with her father. It was wedged under the logging truck. She suffered injuries to the head, multiple skull fractures, contusions and abrasions and was in hospital for 31 days. Mr. Gregory said she suffered severely and had scars on her face which would always be visible.

Jack Davie of Duncan appeared with Mr. Gregory. James Fisher was counsel for Mr. Joyce and his son.

$100,000 FIRE DAMAGE

Immediate Rebuilding Ordered for Hospital

CHEMAINUS — Acting quickly after the quelling of a fire which caused an estimated $100,000 damage Thursday to Chemainus General Hospital, directors of the hospital decided on immediate rebuilding the 61-year-old frame structure.

The roof caught fire at 4:15 p.m., and 10 minutes later all 20 patients had been removed to safety in temporary quarters. There were no injuries.

INSURED

Building and contents were fully insured. Adjusters were on the scene today, and hospital administrator Barney Shaw said that "as soon as they complete their reports we will call for tenders for reconstruction of the roof and other parts of the hospital."

Directors held an emergency meeting Thursday night to make plans for repairs.

Firemen had been called to the hospital at 3:30 p.m., when it was reported the furnace had exploded. They found minor damage, and left shortly after.

Today it is believed the furnace explosion blew out part of the chimney, thus allowing sparks to ignite thick moss on the roof.

Damage was such that a completely new roof will have to be built, including that on a new wing of the hospital which was completed only a month ago.

Fire Chief Ray Millard of Chemainus Volunteer Fire Department had a crew of 25 firemen on the job, plus 13 junior firemen. Assisting the Chemainus department were men and equipment from North Cowichan, Crofton, and Ladysmith fire departments.

The fire was considered under control by 5:30 p.m.

Most of the patients, suffering only minor ailments, were sent home, and the balance were housed in temporary quarters in the basement of Calvary Baptist Church, across the street from the hospital.

They remained in the church today because rain made the roofless hospital inhabitable.

Workmen are covering the roof with tarpaulins, and the hospital staff is mopping up inside the building. Mr. Shaw said he expected most of the patients will be back in the building by Saturday.

TRAGEDY AT GOLDSTREAM

3 Sailors Die in Grinding Crash

Highway 'Freighter' Turned Turtle After Crash

Truck Driver Badly Injured

The dead are OS Ronald M. Mills, 20, Edmonton, Alta., OS John W. Dalgity, 21, Appleton, Ont., George Claude Fraser, 24, Coruna, Ont., all of HMCS Naden. They were all single.

'FAIR' CONDITION

The accident occurred at 2 a.m., 15 miles from Victoria on the Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream Park.

The 17-ton CPR Island Freight Service truck, loaded with about 17 tons of bottled beer and travelling north to Nanaimo, was in collision with a southbound salmon-colored Volkswagen.

The three sailors in the small car were thrown out. Part of the clothing on two bodies was ripped off by the violence of the impact.

ROLLED OVER

The truck veered after the collision, struck a rocky bluff on the left side of the highway, and rolled over on its side, the cab twisted and torn.

Observers said it was miraculous the driver of the truck was not crushed to death. The roof of his cab and the steering wheel were only inches apart after the crash. He was pinned on the floor of the cab and was released with great difficulty by rescue workers.

The cargo in the trailer shifted as it fell on its side, smashing the roof of the truck open.

The truck driver told police when he first saw the car it was out of control and he veered to avoid a collision. The car was about 100 yards north of the landmark rock pinnacle near the Goldstream Park entrance.

SPUN AROUND

It is believed the car first struck the railing on the side of Goldstream, spun around, its rear striking the trailer truck.

The engine of the car, situated in the rear, was ripped off and was found 50 feet from the scene of the accident.

There were no eyewitnesses, but when Wayne Antroub, 2680 Sooke Road, first arrived on the scene, he found the bodies scattered over the highway.

"I first thought sacks were on the road, but when I found out what they really were, it nearly scared me to death," he said.

CALL FOR HELP

He heard the voice of the driver in the cab calling for help.

A Langford volunteer ambulance crew was called to the scene and released the truck driver. He was pinned down by debris and at first rescue workers thought they would have to use a torch to cut the cab open.

The road was wet at the time of the accident. It was raining and visibility was not good.

The three victims were from the RCN training establishment in Halifax and had come to Esquimalt for a course. They apparently were returning to barracks from up-Island. The bodies were taken to Sands funeral parlor at Colwood. No date has been set for an inquest.

City Sailor Murdered In 'Frisco

He was identified as Leading Seaman Daniel J. Shaughnessy, 26, 40 Lurline Ave.

He was killed by a blow on the head.

His ship, the destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree, docked at San Francisco Thursday with two other Esquimalt-based destroyers, Assiniboine and Skeena. They had been exercising with units of the U.S. fleet.

Presumably Shaughnessy went ashore on leave Thursday afternoon.

MOVEMENTS UNKNOWN

Nothing as yet is known of his movements from then until his body was found.

His body was found at Land's End, the San Francisco point overlooking the Golden Gate.

MONEY IN POCKET

They could establish no motive. Shaughnessy did not appear to have been robbed—there were $14 U.S. dollars and two Canadian dollars in his wallet.

The three destroyers are scheduled to leave San Francisco Monday, returning to Esquimalt at 11 a.m. Friday. Shaughnessy, formerly of Edmonton, is survived by the widow here.

WIRE BRIEFS

Rail Talks Continue

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's two major railroads and representatives of their non-operating workers continue talks today to see if a nationwide strike can be avoided.

Strike Goes On

TORONTO (CP)—Strike settlement appeared remote today as placard-carrying pickets plodded before the Royal York Hotel and guests continued toting their own drinks. The strike seemed to be turning into a legal wrangle.

30-Hr. Week Beaten

DETROIT (UPI)—United auto workers president Walter P. Reuther today defeated an attempt by a dissident faction to have the union press for a flat 30-hour work week at this summer's negotiations.

Pessimism 'Unfounded'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Trade Minister George Hees said today Canada has no need to be pessimistic about trading prospects with the Common Market and Outer Seven groups in Europe.

'Cease-Fire' Passes Reds Open Barrage

VIETIANE (AP)—The Western-backed Laotian government's noon target hour for a cease-fire in the civil war passed today with no response from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

Proclaiming "we are the victors," rebel broadcasts were still demanding Thursday that the Vietiane government send a delegation to their headquarters at Xieng Khouang, in eastern Laos, "to negotiate and discuss the cease-fire and armistice question."

The Vietiane government showed no disposition to bow to the rebel demand and instead hoped that negotiations would get under way this weekend in Luang Prabang, the royal capital 138 miles north of Vietiane, at the ceremonial cremation of the late king Sisavong Vong.

Later reports said the Reds were pressing offensives on several fronts and had opened up an artillery barrage.

Dief, Nehru: 'Peace Urgent'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Laotian truce supervisory commission meeting today reached "full agreement" on the contents of a report to be sent to Britain and the Soviet Union, an official communiqué said.

The communiqué, issued after the opening session of the three-power commission, did not disclose the contents of the report. But it said the commission will discuss the draft of it Saturday.

Earlier, Indian Prime Minister Nehru told the delegates— from Canada, Poland and India—that it was of "the greatest importance" to secure a cease-fire in the strife-torn Indo-Chinese kingdom "as early as possible."

He told the delegates that "the sooner you go to Laos, the better it will be."

Western agreement with the urgency of Nehru's statements was reflected in a message from Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker, read at the opening session.

Diefenbaker voiced concern over the prospects of an early cease-fire and over "the condition which will then obtain."

U.S. Patience Near End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported near the end of its patience today with what officials privately call Communist stalling.

President Kennedy has initiated consultations with allied governments and with congressional leaders on what steps may be taken next to prevent more of Laos from falling to Soviet-backed rebel forces.

New action could include

U.S. and allied military intervention aimed at halting the rebel offensive. But informed officials said that Kennedy had not decided finally on his next move.

Should rebel successes bring the collapse of the pro-Western Boun Oum government, the ability of the Western powers to deal with the Communist challenge in the Southeast Asian kingdom would be almost disastrously crippled.

Britain Calls for Meeting

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today called for a meeting between the Laotian government and pro-Communist guerrillas on neutral ground in Laos under a "flag of truce" to establish a cease-fire in the Indo-Chinese kingdom.

A foreign office spokesman announced the proposal amid reports of "crisis planning" among Western diplomats over the delay in ending the fighting in Laos. Diplomatic quarters here were freely discussing the possibility of intervention by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

The spokesman declined to say whether this proposal has been formally presented by Britain either to Russia or the right-wing Laotian government.

'Very Grave Consequences'

OTTAWA (CP)—"Very grave consequences" could result if a cease-fire is not quickly arranged, External Affairs Minister Green said today in the Commons.

He said the whole point in the current Laos situation is "whether or not there will be a cease-fire." Everybody was saying they would like a cease-fire but nothing had yet been done.

When there was a cease-fire, the international truce supervisory commission—Canada, India and Poland are the members—would begin immediately its job of verifying it.

The Canadian members of the commission had instructions to work closely with India and Poland.

'NO PARKING' CHARGE WON BY COLLEGIAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A University of Western Ontario student successfully challenged in court Thursday the validity of curbside signs erected to enforce rush-hour parking bans.

Douglas Ort, 20-year-old geology student from Niagara Falls, Ont., was charged with parking in a prohibited zone between 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

He argued that the signs merely banned stopping during this period. He said he stopped his car to park it before 4:30 p.m. and therefore, had not broken the regulation.

Magistrate Donald B. Menzies said the bylaw under which the parking bans were introduced calls for properly worded signs. The sign was not sufficient to follow the wording of the bylaw, he ruled.

The charge was dismissed.

Congo Peace Parley Set To Resume

COQUILHATVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe ended a 50-hour "sitdown strike" at the airport here today.

He agreed to talk with other Congo leaders about the possibilities of his returning to the Congo Confederation conference from which he walked out to start his sitdown. He had demanded permission to fly back to his Elisabethville capital.

The defiant Tshombe also was on a hunger strike during his long airport "strike." He looked tired and haggard when he left the airport lounge, littered with his baggage.

The Katanga president reached his decision after talking at the airport with Congolese commander-in-chief Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu who had landed here a short time earlier behind 60 of his troops, brought in as reinforcements to those already in Coquilhatville.

U.S. Spurns Cuban Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, spurning a suggestion from the Castro regime for U.S.-Cuban negotiations, declared today that "communism in this hemisphere is not negotiable."

A state department spokesman pointedly reminded reporters that President Kennedy had said the American people "are not complacent about Iron Curtain tanks and planes less than 90 miles from our shores."

Force of impact reduced sailors' car to scrap metal.

Space Shot Successful Man Up Next Week?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Mercury space craft passed its final test today, clearing the way for an astronaut to ride an identical capsule on a sub-orbital flight next week.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the test, designed to test the capsule's safety equipment, was successful although the space cabin failed to reach its expected altitude.

The test was one of the most rugged the capsule could be subjected to and the last in a series before manned flight. It was conducted at the Federal Space Agency's experimental station at Wallops Island, Va.

The space administration reported that the rocket reached only 14,000 feet, instead of 40,000 as planned. But a spokesman said the escape system designed to enable an astronaut to escape from a rocket failure appeared to have worked well.

"The escape was triggered under much more severe conditions than will occur during either the manner Mercury-Redstone (suborbital) or Atlas-boosted (orbital) flights," the space agency said.

"The capsule (fired at 9:04) was recovered at 9:14 a.m. EST and was returned to Wallops station at 9:30 a.m. EST by helicopter. The capsule appears to be in good condition."

In explanation of the low altitude, scientists at the scene said "one of the launching rockets was a little slow in firing."

The "Little Joe" launcher used in the experiment was made up of six solid-fuel rockets bound together in one rocket frame.

After examining the capsule, the scientists said it could be used again in tests or space flights. The same capsule was slightly damaged in the March test, but was fully repaired.

Electronic data showed that the rocket reached a maximum speed of 1,100 miles an hour.

Results of today's test determined whether a U.S. astronaut will be carried up in a similar capsule next week on a 115-mile downrange rocket ride from Cape Canaveral.

In a test March 18, the escape rocket fired too soon and the capsule was slightly damaged. But the scientists said that an astronaut would have survived either the flight today or the one March 18.

Israel Downs Egyptian Jet

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Israeli jet planes today shot down a Soviet-made Egyptian jet fighter in the northwestern Negev, an Israeli Army spokesman announced here.

The spokesman said the aerial engagement followed the violation of Israeli airspace by two jet fighter planes of the MiG-17 type.

Israeli Super Mystere French built jet fighters intercepted the invaders and engaged them, he said.

"One of the Egyptian planes was shot down and its pilot was seen bailing out," the spokesman added.

Whites Expelled

LEOPOLDSDORF (Reuters)—The British leader of some 30 whites captured fighting with the army of break-away Katanga province was expelled from the Congo today along with two other Britons, a United Nations spokesman announced. The leader was Capt. W. R. Browne, brother of a British Conservative party legislator.

PM TO QUASH BASTEDO ON SASK. LEGISLATION

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today that the federal government will over-rule Saskatchewan Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo's action in reserving provincial mining legislation.

Diefenbaker told the Commons he would announce the cabinet's decision on Bastedo's reservation Monday.

"I would point out, however, that reservation of legislation by a lieutenant-governor has generally been dependent on direction from the federal government," he said. "There was neither direction nor consultation in this case."

As turnover slackened the New York market lost ground irregularly. Major steels and motors took losses.

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market developed moderate firmness today on buying credited largely to short covering.

The demand began after posting of first notices of intention to deliver on May contracts showed tenders of nearly all commodities well below expectations, particularly corn and soybeans.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charges that two prominent members of the American Stock Exchange engaged in market rigging and illegal stock sales approaching $10,000,000 were to be detailed today by federal investigators.

Lawyers for the Securities and Exchange Commission, after completing a year-long investigation of exchange members Jerry and Gerard Res, were ready to sum up the findings in a bulky legal brief.

The Res, exchange specialists who conducted the daily market auctions in about 20 stocks, also were to file a brief in their own behalf.

The investigation of the Res, father and son, was one of the most far-reaching in the history of the SEC.

Pending a decision by the full commission, the exchange has suspended the Res from membership.

According to the SEC investigators, the Res illegally sold millions of dollars worth of stock in nine corporations between 1954 and 1960. The investigators said most of the shares were sold at rising prices in rigged markets on the floor of the exchange.

According to the agency lawyers, the shares were channelled through "dummy" accounts in New York and Zurich, Switzerland.

Most of the provincial governments also apply a sales tax on construction equipment," he said. "This practice constitutes a tax on capital investment and efficiency."

THE MAN IN THE DOCK, a familiar sight during trials at Victoria Courthouse, will become a thing of the past if British Columbia follows the lead of Nova Scotia. ## MONTE ROBERTS

You may find this hard to believe (I do, too,) but this dear old grandad is, for the first time in his too-long life, a-hopin' and a-wishin' he could win something for free.

Never having won anything for free, it seems a little too late to start hoping.

But, mutha, do I ever want to win the scobby-doo beast the Quarter Milers have up for grabs at the Autorama in the Curling Rink.

The Curling Rink! What a scene! If I win this bear, I'll be curling, but for real and way out in left field.

And I wish to let the Quarter Milers know—not that I'm trying to influence them, as I don't want any of the cats to go dancing with the heat—that I'll never let the beast become a pig.

All I want is to get in the pilot's seat of this can—I guess a semi-customized of a different name but the same manufacturer can be called a can?—and go "zoom, zoom" on the pipes.

Man, that would be shacking, and I ain't just shucking.

If I—oh happy day—win this Quarter Milers prize, I promise I will never be a gook wagon, or a Sally Rand.

Furthermore, I promise I will never drive it like a choke or a squirrel.

You can depend on me, quarter milers, to stay out of trouble with a fuzz.

Honest, men, I'll never be a shot rodder, no matter how hot the rod. I'll be for show, not go.

And if there's a time for dragging, it will be on the dragstrip you're hoping for—not on a city street where the last word is apt to be "Shoot the juice to me, Bruce."

TRANSLATION: This aged character has purchased several chances on the handsome automobile being offered at the Quarter Milers' Autorama, and promises to take good care of it, stay away from police trouble, and do his best to help the milers get their racing strip, where youth-full steam can be let off without anyone being scalded.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Members of the ornithology group, Victoria Natural History Society, will be host to members of the Vancouver branch who are coming here Sunday to make a study of skylarks over the Saanich Peninsula.

HMCS Cape Breton, returning from a cruise in California waters, was due at Esquimalt at 4:30 p.m. today, instead of 11 a.m. Saturday, as previously announced.

Cape Breton is the Pacific Command fleet maintenance ship.

Plans to form a Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers' Association in Victoria will be made next Wednesday in the composite mess at Bay Street Armouries.

Originators of the plan believe that such an organization would revive the spirit of comradeship they enjoyed in war years. All former soldiers who served with the RCME prior to 1944 are invited to attend Wednesday's meeting, which starts at 8 p.m.

Two 18-year-old boys were fined $20 each when they pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Thursday to being minors in possession of beer.

They were Toby L. B. Hird, 468 Obed, and Lawrence George Wood, 3842 Merriman.

Violet Bissett, 321 Caldecote, was fined $10 in Saanich police court Thursday for lighting a bonfire without a municipal permit.

Druggist H. M. Sutherland today asked city council to limit parking in front of his store at 2061 Douglas to 15 or 20 minutes.

"I have for the past several months been plagued with workers from nearby my place of business occupying what I consider to be my customer parking area for two or three hours at a time," he wrote.

Interest in leasing or buying city-owned acreage south of the Thetis Lake Park entrance was shown today by M. C. Stewart, 267 View Royal.

He wrote city council asking what the price would be for using it as a horse pasture.

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Skirt Mountain, off the Island Highway.

The leader section will leave at 8 a.m. on Sunday for an expedition to Leechtown via the Sooke potholes.

Elected to the board of directors of the Community Welfare Council are:

Mrs. May Campbell, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Mrs. R. G. McKee, John J. Allman, Richard Bower, C. Gordon Elworthy, Darshan Johal, Jack Lee, Prof. E. L. Martens, Miss Ruby McKay, Conway Parrott and James Fox.

Skies will be overcast tonight, and Saturday will be cloudy with rain, weatherman William Mackie said today.

Temperatures will range between 45 and 58 degrees and winds will be easterly from 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Sunday will be a day "between storms," he said. It will be mainly cloudy, but mild and with the hope of short periods of sunshine.

Power of Victoria's family court has been widened. It will be allowed to deal with cases of assault causing bodily harm involving husbands and wives.

Up to now the court has been able to handle only cases of straight assault. Assault causing bodily harm was returned to police court.

A cabinet order gives the court jurisdiction under Section 717 of the Criminal Code, which deals with assaults.

The family court has power to bind a guilty party over to keep the peace, or to jail him—or her.

Capital City branch of the Color Photographic Association of Canada will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid, 322 Plasket Place, next Monday at 8 p.m. There will be discussion on "What Makes a Good Picture" and instruction slides will be shown.

B.C. Agrees To Compile Oak Bay Roll

Oak Bay council has found a method to end its arguments with the provincial assessment commission about the way the municipal assessment roll is handled.

Reeve George Murdoch today said the council has agreed to pay the provincial office to compile the municipality's assessments for next year.

He denied rumors that the commission ordered the municipality to readjust its roll following this year's assessment appeal hearings.

"Our assessors will provide the data and the provincial office will compile the roll," Reeve Murdoch said. "We asked them to do it and they have agreed."

BY OCTOBER

Reassessment of the municipal roll—under 1961 regulations requiring assessments to be based on 50 per cent of current market value for land and 37½ per cent for improvements—should be completed by October under the new arrangement.

Reeve Murdoch said council had become annoyed over frequency of disputes with the provincial office in the past few years.

"Our assessors would go out and do the work on the terms set by the province and then the province would turn around and tell us to change the total," he said.

"This chopping and changing for the last three or four years has been getting a bit thick."

"So we said we'd supply the data and let them compile the assessment. That should end all these arguments."

B.C. School Broadcast Wins Award

A B.C. education department school radio broadcast series has won an international award for education by radio and television at Ohio State University.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said today the program "Listening is Fun," a music series for intermediate grades, has been given a special citation by the university. The citation reads:

"For exceptional use of music and words to convey both factual information and sensitive appreciation. For achieving a continuity and perspective in a broadcast series, by employing a composer's life as a unifying theme throughout a period of musical history. For utilizing the program to involve children in purposeful activity."

Premier Digs First Sod Saturday For Salvation Army Sunset Lodge

Sod-turning ceremony for the proposed Matson Sunset Lodge of the Salvation Army will be performed at 3 p.m. Saturday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The lodge for the aged is to be built on Dunsuir Street on the site of the old Matson home at Mount Adelaide overlooking Victoria Harbor.

The sod-turning ceremony will mark the first tangible step towards building the $750,000 structure which will offer accommodation for 120 single men and women and 10 married couples.

A drive for $245,000 to enable construction start will follow.

Prayers will be offered by Archbishop Harold Sexton and the address will be given by Col. Robert Watt, Toronto, territorial financial secretary for the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda.

VANCOUVER BAND

The Vancouver Temple Band, under Bandmaster Clifford Gillingham, will play selections with singing led by Brig. L. Pined, divisional commander, B.C. south, Vancouver.

A prayer and benediction will be given by Lieut. Col. Hannah Jaynes, Toronto, women's social service secretary for Canada and Bermuda.

At 8 p.m. in Victoria High School a festival of music will be presented by the Vancouver Temple Band under Bandmaster Gillingham. Commissioned Officer T. W. Milner, bandmaster of HMCS Naden Band, will be guest conductor. There will also be guest artists performing, including five clarinetists from the navy band.

Actual launching of the campaign for $245,000 will be held in the Pandora Avenue Citadel at 3 p.m. Sunday at which the address will be given by Times publisher Stuart Keate, campaign chairman.

Civic Staff To Seek Legal Advice

City Hall Employees' Union today sought legal advice following a reported secret decision by aldermen to stand by its earlier rejection of a conciliation award.

The award would have cut quitting time from 5 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. starting Monday and continuing through the summer until Sept. 21.

"We are not going to make any statement on council's action until we have legal advice and have contacted our bargaining representative," said union president Gordon McKenzie.

OVERTIME SLIPS

Union officials previously had threatened to instruct members to turn in overtime slips for every 4.30 to 5 p.m. period worked starting Monday if council did not withdraw its rejection of the conciliation award.

If successful, the overtime bill would run to $220 a day.

The union maintains that the conciliation award was binding under the agreement signed by city council to accept awards in return for a no-strike undertaking by the union.

But aldermen have insisted the conciliation award did not fall within the agreement because it was made by a single conciliation officer instead of a three-man board.

First Applicant For Scholarship

First application for the city's $250 scholarship award established to commemorate the 1959 Royal Visit was received at city hall today.

Marion Alexander, a Grade 12 student at Mount View High School, made the application.

The fund was set up to provide a scholarship over a period of five years to graduates of city high schools proceeding to Victoria College to train as physical education teachers.

Two hours later James Flaherty, 2346 Hamiota, and John Irwin, 1860 Despard, riding in their runabout "Flavin," saw the boat at rest a few hundred yards off shore near the breakwater, with one man waving a white shirt.

The gas tank was empty. They took Madden in their boat to Fishermen's Wharf in James Bay, where police were called, then returned to Sutherland and assisted in bringing the fishing boat ashore.

Sutherland and Madden were kept in the city police station overnight, then were released to the RCMP today.

Drivers Warned On Arena Way

City traffic engineer Norman Worsley today warned motorists it is an offence to ignore signs prohibiting left turns along Arena Way.

The signs were erected last week on traffic islands at Discovery and Herald intersections of Blanshard to enable free movement of traffic around the Hudson's Bay department store parking lot.

given by Times publisher Stuart Keate, campaign chairman.

Hans Gruber of the Victoria Symphony will be guest conductor during a program of music by the Vancouver Temple Band. Guest soloists will be John Dunbar who will sing the "23rd Psalm" and

Mrs. Ann Harris who will sing "Beside Still Waters."

The drive gets functional Monday and will last a month. There are more than 700 volunteer canvassers participating.

The women, under Mrs. Allan Campbell, will conduct the residential canvass by letter and telephone—there will be no doorbell ringing—while the men contact business and industry.

The campaign combines two appeals, $200,000 to enable construction start of the home and $45,000 in the annual Red Shield appeal for general Salvation Army work.

Two Men Drown In Boat 'Party' Off Dallas Road

An unsuccessful search was made today by police for two men missing and believed drowned following what appeared to be a drinking bout on board a boat near Brothie Ledge off Dallas Road on Thursday afternoon.

Apparently obeying a whim, and pretending they were skin divers, they plunged fully clothed into the icy water, and eventually disappeared.

They are Joseph de la Ronde and George MacFarlane, both of Balmoral Apartments, 820 Balmoral.

They jumped from a 25-foot outboard-powered fishing vessel, of which MacFarlane was a part owner.

TWO SURVIVED

Surviving the escapade were Charles Sutherland, Brunswick Hotel, 545 Johnson, and Joseph Madden, 820 Balmoral, second partner in the vessel, registered as TG 1453.

They were incoherent when interviewed by city police a short while later, and aboard the boat were one empty obligation wine jug and a second gallon jug containing about 25 ounces of wine.

An immediate search was launched by two Pilotage Authority vessels and a navy emergency craft, but it was called off at 8 p.m.

RCMP made a search of neighboring shores this morning, while the RCMP launch Sidney, based at Ganges, patrolled back and forth along the waterfront without success.

QUESTIONED

Sutherland and Madden were being interrogated by RCMP at press time today. Police said there was no indication that charges would be laid, and that no decision had been made regarding holding of an inquest.

The garbled report given police by the survivors, started with their leaving the Johnson Street fishermen's wharf at 11 a.m. on a crab-fishing expedition.

All four were about 40 years of age.

'AWAY WE GO'

"We did some drinking on the trip," Sutherland said. "I'm putting on my diving suit and away we go," then dove into the water. De la Ronde said the same thing and went in. Madden went in after them.

"I can't swim, so I stayed in the boat," Sutherland said. "I saw them thrashing around for a while, but couldn't do anything. Madden was the only one who got back into the boat."

He said the incident occurred at about 2 p.m.

WAVING SHIRT

Two hours later James Flaherty, 2346 Hamiota, and John Irwin, 1860 Despard, riding in their runabout "Flavin," saw the boat at rest a few hundred yards off shore near the breakwater, with one man waving a white shirt.

The gas tank was empty. They took Madden in their boat to Fishermen's Wharf in James Bay, where police were called, then returned to Sutherland and assisted in bringing the fishing boat ashore.

Sutherland and Madden were kept in the city police station overnight, then were released to the RCMP today.

MESSY PICNIC PAPERS littered Beacon Hill Park today after Harvey the Jaycee Litterbug got up to his usual tricks. There were several litterbins provided nearby but Harvey and his friends ignore litterbins.

HARVEY'S HAD IT

Big Hunt Tonight For 'the Monster'

By HAL JONES

Harvey the litterbug has had it.

Victoria Jaycees report they now have enough evidence to lock the monster up for life—providing they can catch him. Harvey—he escaped from Jaycees early in the week—came out of hiding again today to pull one of the dirtiest examples of litterbugging ever seen in Victoria.

He waited for the rain to let up and went on a picnic in beautiful Beacon Hill Park. Then with gay abandon, he proceeded to throw his paper plates and cups and wrappings in all directions.

SEARCH TONIGHT

Jaycees will send out a search party tonight to track down the creature who has so successfully littered the town this week—the Junior Chamber's anti-litter week.

The Jaycees' mystery litterbug who has walked the downtown area every lunch hour dropping litter this week, was recognized by a record six persons on Thursday.

Free passes to the Jaycee fair May 15-20 went to Miss Lorna Aitkens, 4472 Tindall Avenue; Mrs. L. D. Parkins, 1330 Mitchell; Ted Smith, 3178 Carroll Street; R. W. George, 1356 Finlayson Street, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Perry, 1019 Mason Street.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Children were playing softball . . . my daughter, running for home plate, was touched by the ball, then the tagger immediately dropped it. Was my daughter out?—D.B.

A. She was safe. According to official baseball rules, if a player is tagged when the ball is alive and the runner is off base, the ball must be securely held by the fielder "before and after the tag."

Q. My mother celebrates her 100th birthday soon. Whom do I notify to receive the traditional congratulations?—T.C.E.

A. Write the secretary, Government House, Victoria, explaining full details.

Anybody wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, Government House, and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve "romantic" or "legal" problems. No will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Times Man Wins on Cariboo Series

Norman Cribbens, a writer for the Victoria Times, has won one of the country's top travel writing prizes for his graphic stories of a vacation trip through British Columbia's Cariboo country to the historic community of Barkerville.

Mr. Cribbens will receive a $250 cash award plus an all-expense paid trip for two to Quebec via Trans-Canada Air Lines.

He won the prize in competition with entries from across the country entered in the second annual Travel Writing Award Contest of the B.C. government in conjunction with Press Journal Magazine. Judging was done in Toronto.

The awards will be presented to Mr. Cribbens by Ron Gadsby, representing the Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, at a dinner preceding the annual Suds 'n' Skits party of British Columbia newsmen in Vancouver Saturday night.

Mr. Cribbens took his wife and two children, Alan, 13, and Jill, 11, on the trip with him.

Norman has always been a travel-minded man and his newspaper career has taken him through jobs in Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and on correspondent assignments to many of the cities of Europe.

After working for the London Bureau of the Canadian Press in the postwar years, he took on the job in 1952 of putting out a Canadian weekly newspaper known as Canada Review, launched by publisher Roy Thomson to serve expatriates and Canadian tourists in England and Europe.

He edited and promoted Canada Review until 1955 when Victoria Times publisher Stuart Keate invited him to return to B.C. where he has since worked as business editor, reporter in the Legislative Press Gallery, feature writer and columnist for The Times.

"I love to travel," he says, "and I like to encourage other people to enjoy it as I do."

THREE SAILORS KILLED IN CRASH ON HIGHWAY

Highway 'Freighter' Turned Turtle After Crash

Deadline Passes For 'Cease-Fire'

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (Saturday)—(UPI)—The Communist Pathet Lao rebels answered the government's appeal for a noon Friday cease-fire with artillery barrages and small advances on all civil war fronts. A guerrilla raid was reported only six miles from the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

The capital still was jittery from loss of Muong Sai, 40 miles to the north and last government stronghold between Luang Prabang and the borders of Communist China.

Royal Army commander, Gen. Bounleuth Sananichan, said the rebels still were moving but had made no "significant" advances in the last 48 hours. He also reported the enemy unit which took Muong Sai contained soldiers from Communist China and Communist North Viet Nam but no other source confirmed his report immediately.

Most of the capital's attention was centred on the red and gold funeral pyre surrounded by 12 white umbrellas where the late King Sisavang Vong was being cremated today. It still hoped the funeral services might bring some of the rival political leaders to Luang Prabang.

Dief, Nehru: 'Peace Urgent'

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Laotian truce supervisory commission meeting today reached "full agreement" on the contents of a report to be sent to Britain and the Soviet Union, an official communiqué said.

The communiqué, issued after the opening session of the three-power commission, did not disclose the contents of the report. But it said the commission will discuss the draft of it Saturday.

Earlier, Indian Prime Minister Nehru told the delegates from Canada, Poland and India—that it was of "the greatest importance" to secure a cease-fire in the strife-torn Indo-Chinese kingdom "as early as possible."

He told the delegates that "the sooner you go to Laos, the better it will be."

Western agreement with the urgency of Nehru's statements was reflected in a message from Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker, read at the opening session.

Diefenbaker voiced concern over the prospects of an early cease-fire and over "the condition which will then obtain."

U.S. Patience Near End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported near the end of its patience today with what officials privately call Communist stalling.

President Kennedy has initiated consultations with allied governments and with congressional leaders on what steps may be taken next to prevent more of Laos from falling to Soviet-backed rebel forces.

New action could include U.S. and allied military intervention aimed at halting the rebel offensive. But informed officials said that Kennedy had not decided finally on his next move.

Should rebel successes bring the collapse of the pro-Western Boun Oum government, the ability of the Western powers to deal with the Communist challenge in the Southeast Asian kingdom would be almost disastrously crippled.

'NO PARKING' CHARGE WON BY COLLEGIAN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A University of Western Ontario student successfully challenged in court Thursday the validity of curbside signs erected to enforce rush-hour parking bans.

Douglas Ort, 20-year-old zoology student from Niagara Falls, Ont., was charged with parking in a prohibited zone between 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

He argued that the signs merely banned stopping during this period. He said he stopped his car to park it before 4:30 p.m. and therefore, had not broken the regulation.

Magistrate Donald B. Menzies said the bylaw under which the parking bans were introduced calls for properly worded signs. The sign was not sufficient to follow the wording of the bylaw, he ruled.

The charge was dismissed.

Truck Driver Badly Injured At Goldstream

Three Esquimalt sailors were killed instantly and a truck driver seriously injured at Goldstream early today in a violent collision between a small European car and a big trailer truck.

The dead are OS Ronald M. Mills, 20, Edmonton, Alta., OS John W. Dalgity, 21, Appleton, Ont., and George Claude Fraser, 24, Corruna, Ont., all of HMCS Naden. They were all single.

The truck driver is Alfred Reynolds of Richmond, B.C.

'FAIR' CONDITION
His condition at St. Joseph's Hospital is described as "fair."

The accident occurred at 2 a.m., 15 miles from Victoria on the Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream Park.

The 17-ton CPR Island Freight Service truck, loaded with about 17 tons of bottled beer and travelling north to Nanaimo, was in collision with a southbound salmon-colored Volkswagen.

The three sailors in the small car were thrown out. Part of the clothing on two bodies was ripped off by the violence of the impact.

ROLLED OVER
The truck veered after the collision, struck a rocky bluff on the left side of the highway, and rolled over on its side, the cab twisted and torn.

Observers said it was miraculous the driver of the truck was not crushed to death. The roof of his cab and the steering wheel were only inches apart after the crash. He was pinned on the floor of the cab and was released with great difficulty by rescue workers.

The cargo in the trailer shifted as it fell on its side, smashing the roof of the truck open.

The truck driver told police when he first saw the car it was out of control and he veered to avoid a collision. The car was about 100 yards north of the landmark rock pinnacle near the Goldstream Park entrance.

It is believed the car first struck the railing on the side.

City Sailor Murdered In 'Frisco

He was identified as Leading Seaman Daniel J. Shaughnessy, 26, 40 Lurline Ave.

Reports said he had been shot in chest and leg and struck on the head.

His ship, the destroyer-escort HMCS Margaree, docked at San Francisco Thursday with two other Esquimalt-based destroyers, Assiniboine and Skeena. They had been exercising with units of the U.S. fleet.

Presumably Shaughnessy went ashore on leave Thursday afternoon.

MOVEMENTS UNKNOWN

Nothing as yet is known of his movements from then until his body was found.

His body was found at Land's End, the San Francisco point overlooking the Golden Gate.

Police say Shaughnessy apparently has been killed elsewhere and his body dumped at Land's End.

They could establish no motive. Shaughnessy did not appear to have been robbed—there were $14 U.S. dollars and two Canadian dollars in his wallet.

The three destroyers are scheduled to leave San Francisco Monday, returning to Esquimalt at 11 a.m. Friday.

Shaughnessy, formerly of Edmonton, is survived by the widow here.

SPACE SHOT SUCCESSFUL

Man Up Next Week?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Mercury space craft passed its final test today, clearing the way for an astronaut to ride an identical capsule on a sub-orbital flight next week.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the test, designed to test the capsule's safety equipment, was successful although the space cabin failed to reach its expected altitude.

The test was one of the most rugged the capsule could be subjected to and the last in a series before manned flight. It was conducted at the Federal Space Agency's experimental station at Wallops Island, Va.

The space administration reported that the rocket reached only 14,000 feet, instead of 40,000 as planned. But a spokesman said the escape system designed to enable an astronaut to escape from a rocket failure appeared to have worked well.

"The escape was triggered under much more severe conditions than will occur during either the manned Mercury, Redstone (suborbital) or Atlas-

PM TO QUASH BASTEDO ON SASK. LEGISLATION

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today that the federal government will over-ride Saskatchewan Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo's action in reserving provincial mining legislation.

Diefenbaker told the Commons he would announce the cabinet's decision on Bastedo's reservation Monday.

"I would point out, however, that reservation of legislation by a lieutenant-governor has generally been dependent on direction from the federal government," he said. "There was neither direction nor consultation in this case."

'Very Grave Consequences'

OTTAWA (CP) — "Very grave consequences" could result if a cease-fire is not quickly arranged, External Affairs Minister Green said today in the Commons.

He said the whole point in the current Laos situation is "whether or there will be a cease-fire." Everybody was saying they would like a cease-fire but nothing had yet been done.

When there was a cease-fire, the international truce supervisory commission—Canada, India and Poland are the members—would begin immediately its job of verifying it.

The Canadian members of the commission had instructions to work closely with India and Poland.

Britain Calls for Meeting

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today called for a meeting between the Laotian government and pro-Communist guerrillas on neutral ground in Laos under a "flag of truce" to establish a cease-fire in the Indo-Chinese kingdom.

A foreign office spokesman announced the proposal amid reports of "crisis planning" among Western diplomats over the delay in ending the fighting in Laos. Diplomatic quarters here were freely discussing the possibility of intervention by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

of Goldstream, spun around, its rear striking the trailer-truck.

The engine of the car, situated in the rear, was ripped off and was found 30 feet from the scene of the accident.

There were no eyewitnesses, but when Wayne Antrobus, 2680 Sooke Road, first arrived on the scene, he found the bodies scattered over the highway.

"I first thought sacks were on the road, but when I found out what they really were, it nearly scared me to death," he said.

He heard the voice of the driver in the cab calling for help.

A Langford volunteer ambulance crew was called to the scene and released the truck driver. He was pinned down by debris and at first rescue workers thought they would have to use a torch to cut the cab open.

The road was wet at the time of the accident. It was raining and visibility was not good.

The three victims were from the RCN training establishment in Halifax and had come to Esquimalt for a course. They apparently were returning to barracks from up-island.

The bodies were taken to Sands funeral parlor at Colwood. No date has been set for an inquest.

boosted (orbital) flights," the space agency said.

The capsule (fired at 9:04) was recovered at 9:14 a.m. EST and was returned to Wallops station at 9:30 a.m. EST by helicopter. The capsule appears to be in good condition.

In explanation of the low altitude, scientists at the scene said "one of the launching rockets was a little slow in firing."

The "Little Joe" launcher used in the experiment was made up of six solid-fuel rockets bound together in one rocket frame.

After examining the capsule, the scientists said it could be used again in tests or space flights. The same capsule was slightly damaged in the March test, but was fully repaired.

Electronic data showed that the rocket reached a maximum speed of 1,100 miles an hour.

Results of today's test determined whether a U.S. astronaut will be carried up in a similar capsule next week on a 115-mile downrange rocket ride from Cape Canaveral.

In a test March 18, the escape rocket fired too soon and the capsule was slightly damaged. But the scientists said that an astronaut would have survived either the flight today or the one March 18.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Trade Minister George Hees said today Canada has no need to be pessimistic about trading prospects with the Common Market and Outer Seven groups in Europe.

$100,000 FIRE DAMAGE

Immediate Rebuilding Ordered for Hospital

CHEMAINUS — Acting quickly after the quelling of a fire which caused an estimated $100,000 damage Thursday to Chemaenus General Hospital, directors of the hospital decided on immediate rebuilding the 61-year-old frame structure.

The roof caught fire at 4:15 p.m., and 10 minutes later all 20 patients had been removed to safety in temporary quarters. There were no injuries.

INSURED

Building and contents were fully insured. Adjusters were on the scene today, and hospital administrator Barney Shaw said that "as soon as they complete their reports we will call for tenders for reconstruction of the roof and other parts of the hospital."

Directors held an emergency meeting Thursday night to make plans for repairs.

Firemen had been called to the hospital at 3:30 p.m., when it was reported the furnace had exploded. They found minor damage, and left shortly after.

Today it is believed the furnace explosion blew out part of the chimney, thus allowing sparks to ignite thick moss on the roof.

Damage was such that a completely new roof will have to be built, including that on a new wing of the hospital which was completed only a month ago.

Fire Chief Ray Millard of Chemaenus Volunteer Fire Department had a crew of 25 firemen on the job, plus 13 junior firemen. Assistant Fire Chief Chemaenus department from North Cowichan, Crofton, and Ladysmith fire departments.

The fire was considered under control by 5:30 p.m.

Most of the patients, suffering only minor ailments, were sent home, and the balance were housed in temporary quarters in the basement of Calvary Baptist Church, across the street from the hospital.

They remained in the church today because rain made the roofless hospital uninhabitable.

Workmen are covering the roof with tarpaulins, and the hospital staff is mopping up inside the building. Mr. Shaw said he expected most of the patients will be back in the building by Saturday.
